

MUSSOLINI SPURNS GREEK PEACE PLEA

Beauty Of Scotland's Hills, Castles, Abbeys Told By W. B. Kirk

CONTINUING his trip through Scotland, W. B. Kirk writes from Glasgow in today's letter of tourists crowding the hotels, also giving a glimpse into the customs of the people whose hill and heather and bonnie bluebells have given the world a charm of song and story. Mr. Kirk writes:

"Glasgow, Aug. 7.—We came on through Edinburgh to Glasgow where we 'parked' at the 'Station Hotel' in Queens street. As soon as possible I sought the office of the American Express Company, hoping for a little mail. Missing directions given me by the porter, I stepped into an office and told the clerk what I wanted. He looked in the directory and said it was at 'No. 3 Nail street.' I asked him to spell that word 'Nail' and when he said 'N-i-l-e'—Nile—I surely had to smile.

"We received no mail. The unfavorable weather kept us indoors practically all the time we were there. We managed to see Glasgow cathedral and the university. The former, built in 1181, is a very interesting old church. As I looked at the original stone arches and pillars supporting this ancient structure I wondered how many of our Glendale and Los Angeles churches would be standing 750 years from now. It's a long time, folks, isn't it, when we consider that, as a nation, we are less than 150 years old."

Provincial Musings
"Two or three things impressed me in Glasgow. One was the fine, large dray-horses, usually single; another the fact that the traffic all goes to the left instead of the right. The street cars in all these towns are double-deckers and look so top-heavy that the slightest trouble would upset them. Another thing, queer to us, is the use of 'Coy' for company, instead of 'Co.' as with us; another, the large number of firms using the 'Llm.' or 'Ltd.' I suppose that is an indication that they have so much money that they must limit their responsibility in each concern."

"Glasgow seems to be a very substantial city, and is over 1,000,000 in population. The Glasgow Herald is about the best newspaper published in these parts. The Clyde is one of the world's greatest harbors and Glasgow is one of the greatest ship-building centers, but this industry is at a very low ebb just now. The paper states that not a ship was launched in July, the total output being a dredge and a few yachts. And they have launched very few ships during the entire year."

TWO NATIONS FRIENDS AGAIN

New Era South of Rio Grande Predicted; Cities Declare Holiday

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The United States has extended political recognition to Mexico. Official announcement of the resumption of diplomatic relations between the two governments was made at the state department today.

The formal announcement was made by William Phillips, the acting secretary of state, in these words:

"The government of the United States and the government of Mexico, in view of the reports and recommendations that their respective commissioners submitted as a result of the American Mexican conferences held at the City of Mexico from May 14, 1923, to August 15, 1923, have resolved to renew diplomatic relations between them, and, therefore, pending the appointment of ambassadors, they are taking the necessary steps to accredit, formally, their respective charge d'affaires."

Charge d'affaires Act. Until ambassadors are named by President Coolidge and President Obregon, the United States will be represented in Mexico City by George A. Summerlin, the (Continued on page 3)

Coal Strike Begins At Midnight in Anthracite Fields

All Hope Is Abandoned by Conference Held Today With Pinchot

By GEO. E. DURNO
For International News Service

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—At midnight tonight a strike in the coal fields will be on. All hope of preventing the 1923 anthracite coal strike was abandoned here today. Behind the closed doors of Governor Pinchot's office at the state house here miner and operator delegations presented their answers to the peace plan submitted to them by the state's chief executive last Wednesday.

Miners and operators informed the Pennsylvania executive that as yet certain points of his proposal basis for settlement of the anthracite controversy are unacceptable and need clarification.

While this reply will mean a walkout as scheduled, the way to future negotiations will not be closed. Enough of the Pinchot plan is acceptable to serve as a basis for further conference. It will remain for some leading figure—possibly Governor Pinchot, possibly President Coolidge—to assemble the miners and operators' committee around the table again.

150,000 Workers Preparing For Long Siege; to Keep Mines From Flooding

By JACK CARBERRY
For International News Service

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—The 155,000 workers in the anthracite coal districts of Scranton, Hazleton and Pottsville, were today preparing for another strike siege. At the 419 pits, mines and colliers of the three districts, the workers were turning out what many of them expected would be the last hard coal mined for weeks—perhaps months.

Orders to the maintenance men—the pumpers, fan men, guards and mule tenders—instructing them to remain at their posts and keep the mines from flooding were received today.

The mining towns are taking the pending strike report calmly. Authorities are not expecting trouble, although they have taken precautions.

Pennsylvania state police last night visited saloons in many of the mining towns and ordered the places closed suspected of selling liquor. This precautionary move was directed by Major Lynn G. Adams of the state police.

STEFANSSON DEPENDS ON CAPT. NOICE

Mother and Father Tell Story of Adventuresome Son's Expedition

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff

DISPATCHES of the week have carried the story of Captain Harold Noice's rescue dash in the "Donaldson" to Wrangel Island, far in the Arctic Circle, a land of Eskimos, silence and the midnight sun, of barrenness, ice and death.

But they have not told of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Noice, of 5133 York boulevard, here in our own friendly Verdugo valley, the parents of this daring young scientist-adventurer, who, though only 28 years old, was commissioned by the great Vilhjalmur Stefansson to make this dash, bearing relief and supplies to Alaskan R. Crawford and three other white men who with an Eskimo family have been "homesteading" Wrangel Island for the British flag, for over two years.

Eight Years in Arctic. While Captain Noice, who has been in the Arctic almost continuously since 1915, leads his crew of twelve men and a pilot up past Sitka and Kodiak, Alaska, (Continued on page 5)

Pussin Boots Has Modern Rival Rescued at Boston, Now Here

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff

PUSS IN BOOTS of nursery book fame, has a modern rival in "Tige" an 8-year-old tiger cat who was one of the happiest members of a motor party to reach Glendale this week after a transcontinental tour of over 3000 miles.

This cat tale, however, begins way back in Boston, Massachusetts, when "Tige" was only a poor, be-draggled little tiger kitten who was doomed to be drowned by a bunch of boys and was rescued by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bancroft and their son, Allen.

He was named "Tige" because of his tiger coat and straightway became the family pet, and three weeks ago when the Bancroft family packed up their worldly possessions to move to Glendale they decided to bring the family cat along.

An expensive cat basket was purchased and "Tige" was "packed" securely for the trip. But after a few miles of travel he

Refuse Petition for Broadway Set-Back

Petition for the establishment of a ten-foot setback line on West Broadway between Central avenue and San Fernando road last night was laid upon the table by the City Council.

O. M. Newby of 107 South Central avenue brought up the subject. He was informed by Councilman Sam Davis that the council could not legally establish a set-back line, which would be the same as confiscating the front ten feet off each piece of property. He called attention to the fact that the only way this can be accomplished is through a condemnation proceeding in a court action.

The widening of West Broadway between Central and Pacific avenues is almost unanimously favored, in the opinion of Mr. Newby. He asserted that property owners are looking forward, also, to the installation of ornamental lights.

An agreement between interested property owners in regard to the set-back line was suggested by Councilman Sam Davis.

MOTORISTS ATTENTION— Changes In California Vehicle Law Effective Sept. 1, 1923

THE following are the more important changes noted by the Automobile Club of Southern California in a bulletin received by members today:

- RIGHT OF WAY RULE—Vehicle on right has right of way, unless vehicle on left enters intersection first. Any vehicle exceeding speed limit forfeits right of way.
Exceptions to Right of Way Rule—(a) Vehicle on public highway has right of way over vehicle entering from private road or drive. (b) Police and Fire Department vehicles have right of way.
- HAND AND ARM SIGNALS—Must be given from left side continuously during last fifty feet traveled before turning. Signal right turn—hand and arm extended upward beyond vehicle; signal left turn—hand and arm extended horizontally; stop signal—hand and arm pointed downward.
- SPEED LAW—Never drive so fast as to endanger life or property; nor more than 15 miles per hour, in business district, at obstructed intersections of streets or railway crossings, on obstructed curves, or in passing schools. 20 miles per hour in residence districts. 35 miles per hour elsewhere, day and night.
- DRIVE ON RIGHT SIDE OF ROAD—All vehicles must keep close to right hand edge or curb except when overtaking and passing other vehicles. Motorists may drive on left side of road in overtaking another vehicle if left side is clear and unobstructed for a distance of 300 feet.
- OVERTAKING AND PASSING—Give two foot clearance and sound horn if outside business or residence district.
- TURNING AT INTERSECTIONS—In turning to right keep close to right hand edge or curb of road. In turning to left pass close to and around center button.
- PARKING—Prohibited on highway outside of business or residence districts. Prohibited in front of driveway to public or private garage or within 15 feet of fire hydrant or entrance to fire station.
- LOADS ON PASSENGER VEHICLES—Loads on running boards may not extend beyond line of hub caps on left side nor more than 6 inches beyond line of hub caps on right side.
- FIRST AID AND INFORMATION—In case of accident stop, give all necessary aid, take injured to physician; give your name and address.
- REPORT ACCIDENTS—Motorists MUST report to Police Department accidents resulting in injury to or death of any person.

Girls in Trousers

Barred From Mission

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Aug. 31.—Girls trousered in, Aug. 31, were refused admission to the historic Old Franciscan fathers' mission here yesterday. Cantering up to the mission door on horseback, the girls, said to have been wealthy visitors from New York and Chicago, dismounted and joined the throng waiting for the opening of the mission for public inspection. Catching sight of the girls in riding breeches when they attempted to enter the mission, the guide threw up his hands in amazement, crossed himself and backed behind the sacred portals. Chagrined, the girls turned quickly and went away.

Social Events

Win High Honors

Alice Carpenter and Carolyn Ayars, the two Girl Scouts of Troop One who Thursday joined the ranks of the First Class Scouts, having earned the first class badge, which is one of the highest honors they can be given in the Scout ranks. The two scouts were invested with the badges of honor at the regular meeting of Troop One, which took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the Troop captain, Miss Gladys Sharpe, 109 West Lomita avenue.

Glendale now boasts nine First Class Girl Scouts, the others being Amy Bainbridge, Lucille Beach, Mary Stanley, Lucille Allen, Catherine Bender, Alexandria Bagley and Frederika Brown, all members of Troop One.

Marjorie Temple and Lucille Harris were invested with Second Class Badges at Thursday's meeting and the following merit badges were awarded: home nurse badge, Carolyn Ayars, Alice Carpenter and Cecil Chase; first aid badge, Carolyn Ayars, Alice Carpenter, Evelyn Traver and Cecil Chase; hostess badge, Catherine Bender.

Present at the meeting were the following members of Troop One: Alice Carpenter, Carolyn Ayars, Marjorie Temple, Lucille Harris, Catherine Bender, Cecil Goodale, Wilma Gosser, Marjorie Hart, Vivian Nay, Ruth Clausen, Mary Jo Phillips, Marjorie Temple, Margery Brown, Lina Borwick, Miss Margaret Longley, a past member of the troop, was a guest at the meeting.

Dinner Hostess

Mrs. George G. Neil of 360 West Colorado street, who leaves tomorrow with her children for a two months' eastern trip, was hostess last night at a dinner celebrating the anniversary of Mr. Neil's birthday.

A yellow and white color combination was used in the dinner appointments, marigolds being the flowers used for the centerpiece. The same colors were carried out in the birthday cakes and ice cream.

She invited for the dinner Mr. and Mrs. William McCullen, Mrs. Nellie Squier, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, Mrs. Zilpha A. Parker, Mrs. Robert Brundage, R. E. Downing, Mrs. Ruth Todd and children Phyllis and Woodruff of Glendale; Miss Ann Spill, Elwood White, George Wakeman of Los Angeles; Miss Jennie Bell of Santa Monica; Mrs. Nyland of Grand Haven, Michigan.

Mrs. Neil and her children, Alice Dixon and George G. Junior, leave Glendale tomorrow. They will go directly east to New York, and Greenwich, Conn., where they will visit until September 17, when they will meet Mrs. Neil's uncle and aunt, Judge and Mrs. Nelson Y. Dungan upon their return from a European trip, and go to New Jersey for a visit with them.

Mr. Neil is to leave Glendale September 10 and join his family in Montreal, October 1, for further travel. They will return to Glendale in two months.

Enjoy Vacation

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest E. Ford have returned to their home at 326 Fairview avenue, after a week at their summer home, "Los Vados" in the Arroyo Seco.

They have been enjoying a delightful vacation, featured by a motor trip north to the Sequoia National park with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford of 417 1/2 Burchett street.

While in the park the Fords camped within two blocks of the old tree, General Sherman, declared by scientists to be the oldest living thing in the world.

Rev. Ford is anticipating resuming his pastoral duties at the First Baptist church Sunday, September 9.

Entertains Nieces

Honoring her two nieces Misses Vivian and Dorothy Urey of Indianapolis, Ind., Mrs. Sherman Ayers entertained informally last night at her home at 315 Cameron place.

The evening was spent with games and the party was largely composed of relatives. Mrs. Ayers invited Miss Helen Buck, Miss Mary Buck, Halford and Richard Buck, Misses Lucile and Lavon Pearson of Garvanza; Marion Ayers, Harold Stanley of Highland Park; Homer Crider of Glendale.

At the close of the evening unique refreshments were served by the hostess.

English Guests

J. E. Garland and son Hugh G. Garland of Bridlington, England are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall at 525 South Central avenue.

Mr. Garland is engaged in the building business in England and his son is a student in the Leeds Medical University. The father is intensely interested in the building activities of Glendale and marvels at the city's continued growth.

Mr. Garland and his son landed in New York August 10 after crossing the Atlantic on the Berengaria. They will sail for home October 2 on the same liner.

For Miss Morton

Miss Dorothy Morton, who will be married to George Hastings, this fall, was the honor guest last night at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. James Lyons at her home, 619 North Howard street.

The refreshment table had as a centerpiece a beautiful basket of the daisies and on the handle of the basket was tied a large blue bow. Dainty place cards and favors consisting of tiny blue paper parasols on standards were used.

The evening was spent in hemming tea towels for the bride-to-be, prizes being awarded for the most artistically designed to Miss Amie Miller and consolation prize to Mrs. Leonard Smith.

At this time Miss Morton was showered with many beautiful and useful gifts for her future home.

Later in the evening the hostess served refreshments. The guests present included the honoree, Miss Dorothy Morton, and mother, Mrs. H. Morton, and Mrs. H. Morton, Jr., Mrs. E. H. Dutton, Mrs. George C. Hastings, Mrs. Leonard Smith, Mrs. Roy Selover, Mrs. Charles Talbott, Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, Mrs. Edgar Coker, Mrs. R. L. Taylor, Mrs. L. Moniot, Miss Amie Miller and Miss Winifred Sternberg.

Club Activities

The final days of summer are ushering in the first signs of club activity for the coming club year. The guests present included the honoree, Miss Dorothy Morton, and mother, Mrs. H. Morton, and Mrs. H. Morton, Jr., Mrs. E. H. Dutton, Mrs. George C. Hastings, Mrs. Leonard Smith, Mrs. Roy Selover, Mrs. Charles Talbott, Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, Mrs. Edgar Coker, Mrs. R. L. Taylor, Mrs. L. Moniot, Miss Amie Miller and Miss Winifred Sternberg.

Added interest for Glendale and other Southern California clubs is to be featured by the biennial of the General Federation of Women's clubs in Los Angeles June 3 to 10.

The refreshment table decorations were carried out in a pink and white color scheme. Dainty little pink baskets filled with candies marked the little guests' plates. A beautiful birthday cake, decorated in pink and lighted with six pink candles proved to be the center of attraction. Each little guest was presented with a quaint little pink cap.

The afternoon was spent in playing games and a general good time.

Mrs. Farlander was assisted by Mrs. George Bigelow and Mrs. Robert Yost.

The guests included Bobby Lyons, Buddy Yost, Virginia Russell, Florence Sawyer, Betty Bowman, Lottie Pearce, Richard Farlander and the honoree, Barbara Louise Farlander.

Needlework Club

Mrs. E. Bruce of 703 West Tenth street Burbank, was hostess yesterday to the following members of the Navajo Needlework club: Mesdames F. A. Koonitz, Ella Williams, Mark Carlisle, E. O. Carlisle, L. O. Carlisle, M. P. Fuller, J. P. Waite and J. B. Root.

Birthday Dinner

Miss Hettie Orth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Orth of 153 South Central avenue, was the guest of honor last Wednesday night when Mrs. Orth entertained with a dinner party in the celebration of her birthday anniversary.

The rooms of the Orth home were decorated with a profusion of yellow marguerites and greenery. The table decorations were carried out in the same tints, with tall yellow candles, and dainty favors and place cards in yellow.

The evening was devoted to "Five Hundred" at which Miss Linda Goertz was awarded prize for high score.

Those present were Miss Jane Snyder, Miss Hope Ireland, Miss Mildred Cole, Miss Irene Whitaker, Miss Dorothy Haig, Miss Linda Goertz, Mrs. James Richardson, Mrs. Orville Williams, Mrs. Leonard Smith, the guest of honor, Miss Hettie Orth, and the hostess, Mrs. J. H. Orth.

Visitors Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Breneisa of Chicago, who are summer guests at the home of Mrs. S. C. Kinch at 1224 Dorothy drive, were complimented last night by a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kinch at their home at 328 North Brand boulevard.

Mr. Kinch took Mr. and Mrs. Breneisa, Mr. and Mrs. Schrader and daughter Rita for a motor trip to the beach resorts and when they returned late in the afternoon they were happily surprised to find that Mrs. Kinch had arranged an informal dinner to honor the Breneisas and also celebrate Mr. Kinch's birthday.

There were present Mr. and Mrs. Harry Breneisa, Miss Elizabeth Breneisa, Mrs. S. M. Breneisa, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schrader, Rita Schrader, Mrs. F. E. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kinch.

War Mothers Meet

Mrs. Nellie Snow Hyer of the Glendale chapter of War Mothers was honored by appointment as district War Mother of Los Angeles county yesterday at a meeting of War Mothers in Whittier to greet the state War Mother, Mrs. Rose Sargent of San Francisco. Mrs. Hyer of Pasadena is to be War Mother of the Orange county district.

Table Request for Commercial District

A request that the intersection of Adams street and Windsor road be established on the records as a commercial district was laid upon the table last night by the City Council.

J. B. Whittaker of 407 West Harvard street, who owns the northeast corner of Adams street and Windsor road, intimated that he wanted to put up a substantial business building. He called attention to the fact that the opposite corner is occupied by the Golden West Sanitarium. He said that he was more than willing to make an agreement with the other interested property owners in regard to restricting business buildings to a valuation of over $4,000 or $5,000.

Objection to the creation of any more commercial districts within the city limits was made by Councilman Sam Davis. His attitude was endorsed by Councilman W. A. Horn.

Welcome Pastor Back From Canadian Trip

Parishioners of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church are welcoming their pastor Rev. J. C. Livingston of 1203 North Central avenue from a visit of six weeks in Canada.

It is Rev. Livingston's custom to visit his old Canadian home and relatives and friends about every two years, and the visit this year proved most enjoyable.

He left Glendale July 2 and went directly to Toronto, where he visited a sister at his old home in Haldimand county. While in Canada he supplied in the pulpit at the Centenary Methodist church in Hamilton, where he was educated and has a host of friends.

Sixth Birthday

Barbara Louise Farlander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Farlander of 354 Riverdale drive, celebrated her sixth birthday anniversary this afternoon, when her mother entertained a number of her little friends at the Sunset Canyon Country Club, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

The refreshment table decorations were carried out in a pink and white color scheme. Dainty little pink baskets filled with candies marked the little guests' plates. A beautiful birthday cake, decorated in pink and lighted with six pink candles proved to be the center of attraction. Each little guest was presented with a quaint little pink cap.

The afternoon was spent in playing games and a general good time.

Mrs. Farlander was assisted by Mrs. George Bigelow and Mrs. Robert Yost.

The guests included Bobby Lyons, Buddy Yost, Virginia Russell, Florence Sawyer, Betty Bowman, Lottie Pearce, Richard Farlander and the honoree, Barbara Louise Farlander.

U. S. AND MEXICO FRIENDS AGAIN

H. M. Butts of Glendale Says Recognition Gives His Property Security

American charge d'affaires, and the Mexican government in Washington by Senator Manuel C. Tellez, the Mexican charge.

Ambassadors may not be named until December, when the United States congress is in session to act upon the nominations submitted by the president.

The re-establishment of friendly relations between the United States and Mexico was effected as the result of negotiations which have been carried on for more than two years, and which came to a conclusion a few weeks ago in the conference at Mexico City between representatives of President Obregon and an American commission composed of Charles Beecher Warren and John Barton Payne. Diplomatic relations between Washington and Mexico City have been broken off since May, 1920.

Started By Harding
At the beginning of his administration the late President Harding immediately opened informal negotiations with President Obregon with a view to establishing a basis for the re-establishment of political intercourse.

Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican charge d'affaires here, expressed a keen interest today in Secretary Hughes' interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine and obtained the complete text of the Minneapolis speech to be cabled to Mexico City for President Obregon.

The declaration of Secretary Hughes that the United States sought wider co-operation with the governments of South and Central America, was followed here today by the announcement that simultaneous meetings with this end in view will be held in all American capitals in Columbus day, October 12, 1923.

Texas Cities Celebrate
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 31.—Mayor John W. Tobin declared a legal holiday today over recognition of Mexico, and arrangements were made for a special train to leave here Saturday noon for Mexico City. It will carry business men who will congratulate President Obregon on the success of recognition.

Parades and fireworks will mark the celebration tonight.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 31.—Congratulations were extended in both directions across the border here today when whistles and bells ringing for ten minutes announced that the United States had recognized the republic of Mexico.

Mayor Antonio Corona of Juarez and Mayor R. M. Dudley of El Paso exchanged visits. Celebrations are being arranged.

H. M. Butts Gives Views on Mexico

H. M. Butts, of the Monarch Auto Supply company, 204 South Brand boulevard, who spent twenty-five years in Mexico, and has large lumber and other interests in and about Mexico City, comments on recognition of that country by the United States as follows:

"Mexico is a great country, virgin in every sense. It has a fertile soil and vast resources of minerals and other materials the world needs. Hence recognition will mean a tremendous spur in export and import business between the two countries.

"With recognition I feel that my interests there, for years unsettled, are now secure. Entrance of large capital from this side of the border will be the next step in the material and spiritual development of that great potential republic to the south of us."

Mr. Butts was in Mexico from 1886 to 1913.

Swim and Dance at Sunset Club Enjoyed

Many members of the Glendale Community Service organization were guests at the Sunset Canyon Country club, Burbank, last night, enjoying a swimming party at the pool and later a dance on the beautiful ballroom floor of the clubhouse. Caledonian Canal Traversed By Glendale Tourists Seeing Sights In Bonnie Scotland excursion ticket which has given us some idea of "The Highlands". The first stage of our journey took us along the Clyde via Crielandrich (get it?) to Oban on the west coast. We passed along by Loch Lomond for some distance, got a glimpse or two of Ben Lomond and Ben Nevis, through the clouds, passed beautiful Loch Etive and Loch Awe and really had a few hours of clear weather in Oban.

"It is in a fine location on the Firth of Lorn, which separates mainland from the Island of Mull. That evening we had the pleasure of listening to a band of pipers of the McDougall of Lorn clan. The leader resided in the rear of the old Dunollie castle, which stands on a headland northwest of the town.

"The plaid of this clan is in a bright red ground and the men were very picturesque and they marched through the streets and afterward gave a concert in the park. Nothing is more inspiring than the bagpipe. No wonder it did such splendid service in the war.

"Up through the Caledonian canal in clouds and rain our journey lay, for the entire distance. We could see little of Fort William and Port Augustus, so well known to all Scotchmen. The hills were beautifully green, but I was surprised at the amount of bare land, very little cultivation is to be seen. The bell heather is blooming profusely and we saw lovely old-fashioned honeysuckle in the yards. Their pansies grow taller than ours.

"On the canal we passed through a stretch of larch trees, a wonderfully pretty evergreen. What we call ferns in Verdugo canyon is called 'bracken' over here, and is a pest. It takes acres of pasture land and is hard to uproot.

Inverness and Aberdeen

"It was an all day trip to Inverness, which is on the North Sea and is called the 'Queen of the Highlands'. We were told that the purest English in the world was spoken there. We believe this to be only a myth, however. It is a solidly built, nice, old town. The rain kept us from seeing much of it, or thinking of it as we otherwise might.

"Saturday morning, however, broke clear and we really had one nice day in Aberdeen, a city of 150,000, and the great fishing center of northeast Scotland. It is rightly named the 'Granite City' because every building in it is constructed of that everlasting material. They are all gray in color, with slate roofs and a few tiles. While the architecture is necessarily severe as compared with ours, one cannot fail to be impressed with its substantiality.

Scotch Names Familiar

"A city constructed of such materials in America would cost untold millions. Here they secure the stone close by and its cost, I presume, has not been much higher than our materials are today. We went over it pretty thoroughly. The old Scotch names on the stores reminded us of many of our well known Glendale citizens.

"I supposed I would find my own name common in Scotland, but I have not met it here at all although it appears as a prefix or suffix in so much of the geography of the country. We attended service at a central 'Church of Scotland' and I found it satisfying and good.

"Our train to 'Edinboro Town' was along the coast and brought us through the birthplace of our old friend F. J. W. Henry, which you have all heard him pronounce 'Brochty' Ferry. The average Scotchman over here hasn't much on him when it comes to burring his r's. We tried to get a snap of it, but our express was going too fast.

See "Fine Old City"
"The tourist season is on in earnest over here, so we had trouble in securing rooms when we landed here last night, as the hotels were all crowded. Today we have been seeing this fine old city.

"We did it by private conveyance. The Royal mile drive from Holyhead palace to the Castle you have all heard about, and my space is too limited to add much. "We spent some time in St. Giles cathedral which is older than the Glasgow cathedral, and it took us about an hour at the castle. One can easily see that Edinburgh is the aristocratic city of Scotland as well as its capital. The stores display beautiful merchandise and the prices correspond.

"But how queer it is to see no real estate offices over here! They have no such term, don't know what it is. When a man wants to buy a house or real estate he goes to a lawyer. How's that? And he can't buy the property even then, he can only lease it on some basis called a 'few'.

"Glasgow, August 8.—At the risk of making this letter too long, I must tell you what a fine day we had on our trip to the 'Scott Country' Tuesday. We made it by auto and, although it was raining when we started, it cleared by the time we reached Abbotsford and we had a lovely afternoon.

'Looks' Cost Nothing!
"The old Scotchman who showed us through was as interesting as the house itself. He would say, for instance, 'This was Sir Walter Scott's favorite, look'—and he secured it, look, and so on with everything he pointed out. His accent, his 'look, looks' and his age and appearance all fitted into the scene perfectly. It made you feel that you were almost in the presence of the great man himself, when you saw the well worn leather chair, wherein he sat when he wrote nearly all those great and voluminous novels and poems and the desk on which he wrote, both these being in the library where all the books are kept exactly as he arranged them. "To see his tall high hat, shepherd plaid trousers and silk striped waistcoat, low lace shoes and spats, also made you feel that he must be dead."

"Melrose Abbey, the best preserved of the old abbeys, and Dryburgh Abbey, where Sir Walter is buried, are most interesting. The place on the road when he used to rein in his horse, when out riding in order to gaze at the beautiful scene is worthy in every particular. You who have seen the spot know this to be true.

Rain Spoils Day
"Wednesday we made the trip to the 'Trossachs' and the Lochs which includes two trips by train and two each by coach and boat. On Loch Katrine and Loch Lomond. The day promised well but grew hazy and wound up in a pouring rain. So, although you know the lakes must be beautiful, the trip was marred. I will say to the unsophisticated that the real meaning of 'Trossachs' is 'connecting streams'. They are the glens which connect this string of Lochs, including Loch Drunkie and others, but no water runs into them now.

"How quiet and woody and pretty they are! The heather is just beginning to bloom now and great patches of it covered the roadways and hillsides.

Meet Girl From Glendale
"Yesterday we had a happy visit. Some of you will remember Miss Suzanne Tod, who was a nurse at the Sanitarium three or four years ago, and whom we knew professionally. She came back to her native land and is now Mrs. William Steward, and lives in Rothsay, a beautiful resort town at the mouth of the Clyde. We learned her address and went down to see her. She has a fine baby boy and is very happily married, but she loves California and will be living in Glendale again sooner or later. She sends greetings to all her friends.

"We are spending today here quietly, resting up and go to Ireland tonight for a few days. We love the Scotch people and Scotland. They have a beautiful country and a beautiful climate."

(Travels in Ireland will be related in Mr. Kirk's next letter.)

As Labor Day nears the feminine mind turns to thoughts of clothes. The shops are filled with cold weather apparel. Some of the garments are of the sort which will appeal to the average woman, while others are of the "different" variety. The suit at the left is plainly of the latter class. The coat is a rather close-fitting blouse affair with a surprise effect. The sleeves are tight until they reach the elbow—then they flare out in a gorgeous manner until they gain huge proportions at the wrist. Gray fur trims the cuffs and surplice collar. Another unusual feature is the tiny collar edged with fur. The skirt with its three tiers reminds one of the fashions which were in vogue several years ago. In the center is a frock that will look well on both the youthful and more mature figure. It is made of desert gray pleated crepe de chine with a panel of soft gray lace. A wide band of unpleated crepe de chine makes an attractive neck. The same material is used for the crushed sash which ties in a bow at the left side. Pressed satin transforms the plain black gown at the right. The pressed satin is used for the blouse, bands on the three-quarter sleeves, and bow. The skirt is plain with just a slight fullness in the front. The plain satin is also used for the wide belt at the hips. These three models are smart looking and practical. With the exception of the suit they are garments that would look well on almost any woman. Extremes have been avoided both in length and

GREEK PLEA FOR PEACE REJECTED

Italy Masses Forces for War as European Diplomats Seek Solution commission.

The real situation in Italy is obscure owing to censorship. The British Mass Ship. The first battle squadron of the British naval fleet has been ordered to assemble at Invergordon, but admiralty officials claim that this activity is without significance. British destroyers have been ordered to concentrate at an unnamed rendezvous.

British newspapers, in discussing war possibilities, point out that Italy outnumbered Greece as to army, navy and air forces, three to one. But there is much conjecture as to the attitude of Jugo-Slavia and Turkey in the event of war.

Italy's Foes
Jugo-Slavia is angry over failure to acquire Fiume and the Turks are disgruntled over the loss of African territory to Italy. Most British newspapers believe that Mussolini acted too hastily and drastically in sending an ultimatum to Athens as the five men who were assassinated were attached to an international organization, not one of strictly Italian nationality.

Battle Fleet Sails
PARIS, Aug. 31.—An unconfirmed report originated from Italian sources today that the Italian battle fleet sailed from Tarento last night. Taranto is the Italian naval base near Greece.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—2 p. m.—A Greek steamship which intended to sail from Brindisi, Italy, for Greece today was not permitted to leave the harbor, said a dispatch from Brindisi. An Italian ship sailing for Turkish ports was warned not to touch Greece.

Will Oppose League
LONDON, Aug. 31.—2 p. m.—Premier Mussolini of Italy will resist intervention by the League of Nations in the Italian-Greek dispute over the assassination of King Victor Emmanuel, who has been living at his summer palace on the coast, is returning to Rome.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Greece by the Athens government, said a Central News dispatch just received from Athens.

Prosperity Is Shown By Postal Receipts
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Postal receipts of fifty typical industrial cities of the United States for July showed an increase of nearly nine per cent over July, 1922, and over nineteen per cent over July, 1921. This is an accurate reflection of the increased prosperity in industries and corresponding increase in business. The cities showing the increase are widely scattered.

Birds May Halt Trip South to Eat Pests
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 31.—Perhaps the southern migration of birds will be delayed this year. From all sections of Connecticut come reports that birds which usually seek the forest shades at this time of year to rest for the long journey are flocking about apple trees to feast on the skeletonized pest which lately has settled on the trees to the alarm of orchardists.

King Hastens to Rome
LONDON, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Rome quoted the Italian ministers of war and marine as saying that the Greek note is not acceptable and that "necessary steps have been taken." The cryptic nature of the advices from

Summary of War Activity Reveals Balkans' Plight

For International News Service

ALTHOUGH no hostile move has yet been made by either side, the menace of war still hovers over Southern Europe today as a result of the Greek-Italian dispute. The chief fear now is for peace in the Balkans.

Anti-Greek disorders were reported from Italy, and anti-Italian demonstrations from former Austrian territory which both Italy and Jugo-Slavia claimed after the world war.

The Italian cabinet met at Rome and discussed the Greek reply to the Italian ultimatum. According to the semi-official Italian newspaper Messaggero, the Greek note was not acceptable.

Greek newspapers are urging the Athens government to appeal to the League of Nations at once. A press report from Athens said Greece would demand satisfaction for the burning of the Greek flag by Fascisti at Trieste. There was an unconfirmed report that a squadron of Italian warships had sailed for Corfu.

England is exerting pressure to prevent hostilities.

Rome caused some alarm here.

According to the Exchange Telegraph Premier Mussolini communicated Italy's plans to the cabinet, which approved them. General Diaz and Admiral De Revel then reported to the government.

King Victor Emmanuel, who has been living at his summer palace on the coast, is returning to Rome.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Greece by the Athens government, said a Central News dispatch just received from Athens.

Fish Dying Ashore Given Watery Graves
LOGAN, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Learning that thousands of dead fish were floating down the Hocking river, state game protectors began an investigation. They found that a dredge in Rush creek dammed the stream during a freshet several weeks ago. The fish died in the fields when the water subsided. A second freshet carried the dead fish into the river.

BALL CHIEF INDICTED
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Chas. A. Stoneham, chief owner of the New York National League Baseball club, was indicted today by the federal grand jury on a charge of perjury growing out of the investigation of the $5,000,000 failure of the brokerage firm of E. M. Fuller Company.

RESTING COMFORTABLY
Reports this morning from the J. H. Franklin home at 246 North Central avenue, stated that Mr. Franklin was resting comfortably following a sudden illness that seized him yesterday.

50 Held for Hours On Stranded Vessel

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Fifty passengers, including several women and children, were marooned for five hours on board the fishing boat Sappho, which had run ashore at Sandy Hook.

The Sappho left Canarsie at 7 in the morning and three hours later struck on the beach in a heavy sea. The fishing boat Edith, commanded by Capt. James McAvoy, and a fleet of small craft stood by and tried to haul the Sappho off.

John Finkson of the Edith's crew swam three times with a line to the Sappho and it finally was hauled fast to the stranded boat's mast. But in the tugging the mast split and all efforts to drag her off into deep water failed.

Along in the afternoon the Sappho was driven so far inshore that most of her passengers were able to wade to the beach. They had to walk to the Highlands to board trains or boats for New York.

Captain Tyndall of the Sappho said engine trouble had caused the boat to drive ahead onto the beach.

Patent Office Sets Record for Business

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Receipts of patents and trade mark applications during the past two years have been the greatest in the history of the United States Patent Office. The number of applications has averaged 9,000 per month. An estimate of the increase in patents is fixed at fifty per cent, and in trade marks at 100 per cent. Notwithstanding this tremendous increase, the Patent office, under the present administration, has succeeded in making gains in its work, although its personnel has been increased only seven per cent. Two years ago the office was ten to fifteen months in arrears in handling applications.

GREB FAVORITE IN WILSON BOUT

Lightweight Champion Will Have Chance to Justify Title

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The middle of the middleweight division will be untangled at the Polo Grounds tonight when Johnny Wilson and Harry Greb will meet in a fifteen-round bout with the championship title at stake. The affair either will establish Wilson as a legitimate champion at the weight, a matter of doubt in the minds of many, or bring Greb forward as the rightful successor to the title.

It will be the first meeting of these principals, although they were matched a year ago. On that occasion Wilson gave his contract the justly celebrated "run around" and was suspended and his title declared void, in consequence, by the New York State Athletic commission. His reinstatement was delayed until such time as he evinced a desire to go through with the Greb contract.

Although it is said that he may experience some difficulty in making the required weight of 160 pounds, Greb is an almost prohibitive favorite. His speed, his unique style of attack and general aggressiveness are deemed to be sufficient to earn him a decision on points, a knockout by either man being a very remote possibility.

Beat Mike O'Dowd
Wilson has held this title for several years in spite of the fact that many middle-weights are imbued with the idea that he is made to their measure. He fell heir to the championship by getting the decision over Mike O'Dowd in Boston, and subsequently made the verdict stand up by slapping Mike very silly in a return engagement at Madison Square Garden.

In one of his unguarded moments, however, Wilson met up with one Bryan Downey, out in Ohio, and the latter claimed to have scored a seven-round knockout. But the champion had had the forethought to bring along what was alleged to be his own referee, and the claim, if any, was disallowed. Wilson and Downey then met again at Jersey City and the event proved to be nothing short of a public calamity. Downey was adjudged to have been the more astute of the two. The "run around" on the Greb engagement and the suspension of Wilson followed some months later.

Both of tonight's principals are orthodox in style, Greb's tactics including everything except hitting with flatirons. Wilson is a southpaw, fighting with the right hand and foot extended. Neither has the slightest claim to cleverness, but Greb has a big edge in speed and should outstep his man in the race for the final verdict.

LOCAL NIMRODS GO AFTER DOVES

Limit of 15 Flighty Fowl
Allowed Hunters; Season
Opens Tomorrow

By JACK KAZMARK
For The Glendale Evening News
Tomorrow, September 1, the dove season throughout the state of California will open, finding scores of Glendale sportsmen in the field and hills striving their "derdest" to bag the limit of fifteen of the flighty fowl. Reports from all districts indicate that the birds are far more plentiful this year than ever before, all of which is good music to the ear of the shooters.

For those who are not fully informed as to the best spots to hunt the elusive flocks, the San Fernando and Antelope valley districts, especially in the vicinity of Saugus, Castworth and Zelzah have proven the most favored sections for the gun-ponters in past seasons.

As a means to create added enthusiasm among sportsmen and shooters, the B. H. Dyer company is offering two merchandise trophies on the opening day. One will be a box of Remington dovetail shells for the first limit brought to the store, and the second will be a pair of Duck Hecht boots for the second limit turned in.

Step on it, you shooters, and let's see who cops the glory and the prizes.

Berkeley Stadium to Be Finished Nov. 24

BERKELEY, Aug. 31.—Construction work on the California Memorial Stadium will, without doubt, be completed in time for the annual California-Stanford football game on November 24, according to a statement by D. W. Ormsbee, resident engineer. The structure is practically completed except at the north end. A tile drainage system covering the entire field has been laid and the gravel bed for the turf field has been put in place. Work on the northern end of the stadium was started this week.

Babe Ruth was fined $25 for his first offense at speeding in his automobile. We don't know why an habitual offender, as Ruth seems to be, should not be sent into the hoosegow. A prison cell to the average lowbrow is more instructive than any other form of instruction.

It is unfortunate that a man of the low mentality of Ruth should be placed by providence in a position where he is looked up to by the youth of the country. As an example he has probably done a world of harm to the young idea of any possible good. It is a great pity.

As a matter of fact the average professional athlete is likely to be a poor example rather than a good one to be emulated by the boys of the country. While the exception proves the rule, it naturally follows that when a man has to make his living through his physical prowess, his mentality must, for some reason be in abeyance to his muscular system. Of course there have been exceptions. Christy Mathewson was a fine type in baseball while his opposite seems to be the equally celebrated Mr. Babe Ruth of uncertain morals and mode of life.

Bill Johnston is said to have lost five pounds during the final match of the Seabright tournament.

SPORTS CHATTER By BILL UNMACK PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Will the time ever come when the records of women in track and field athletics will be subjected to the same processes as those of the men? At the present time if you ask anyone what the woman's record is for the 100-yard dash or any other event, it is a ten to one shot that the man questioned will not know.

While women are more and more taking up active participation in athletics, it is apparent that they are not doing so very fast along lines which are similar to track and field events. While there are high jumpers and runners and so on, it will be found that the large preponderance of women are taking up golf and tennis.

Probably the general public is more familiar with women's swimming records than anything else. A number of notable female performers such as Annette Kellerman, Fanny Durack, Ethella Bleibtry and others have compelled attention by the merit of their performances.

Nothing on the track and field has arrested the attention in the way of the swimmer's performance. A jump of four feet ten inches does not make any particular appeal when compared to the present day average jump of the man, which is about six feet.

Something it is rather difficult for the general public to get used to the idea of young women in the sprints, runs, jumps and weight events. There are events that seem more like men's work. Down at Stanford University in California there are a half hundred women who are members of the university women's track and field squad and they are being coached in the various events.

Thus far they have only com-

Since Johnny Wilson won the middleweight title from Mike O'Dowd in 1920, he seems to have had few fights and a lot of trouble—and if our guess isn't away wrong, he's going to run into a lot more grief on Friday night.

Wilson was a veteran when he won the title—fact is, this is about Johnny's fourteenth year in the ring—though no one had ever heard of him outside of Boston, where he was considered a "pork and bean" thumper. His right name is John Panica; he is of Italian descent. He can hit and has a certain amount of boxing ability. With his right hand extended he's nobody's set-up.

Compared to middleweight champs of the past, Johnny doesn't quite rank as high, so to speak. Bob Fitzsimmons, Stanley Ketchel, Kid McCoy, Billy Papke, Tommy Ryan and the original Jack Dempsey—there was class among the middleweights in the days gone by. And then, too, the division was as popular as the heavies are today.

Jack Dempsey, "The Nonpareil," was a fine boxer. It took Bob Fitzsimmons, who later won the heavyweight title at about the same weight, to beat Dempsey. When Fitz went after the heavyweights Ryan and McCoy both claimed the title, but Fitz was still champion and he could always make the weight.

Joe Thomas next defended the title three times against Ketchel before the cowboy-miner copped the crown. Next came Billy Papke. He sent Ketchel to sleep, but he lost the title three months later in a return bout with the same thumper.

After Ketchel's death there was a mad scramble. Papke, Lewis, Thompson, Clabby, Klaus, McGorty, Dill and Chip also Mike Gibbons claimed the crown, and the fans got fed up with the dispute. The middleweight division was about as popular as a motorcycle cop on a new cement road.

Then Al McCoy emerged from somewhere and claimed to be the one and only champion middleweight. As no one seemed to give a whoop, Al was left absolutely to himself, title and all.

That brings us down to Mike O'Dowd, who cracked McCoy on the beeper and flattened his claims. Mike was a service man and everybody was glad he got something out of the war, so suddenly middleweights began to get talked about. Mike, being just a mauler, lost to Wilson.

Harry Greb, in our judgment, is a better man than Johnny. But Harry is not a popular man with the gallery. Many think he hits foul. At any rate, Greb certainly gives the onlooker a sack full of action. He is the most aggressive fighter imaginable, all over his opponent from the first going to the last. Attack, attack, attack! Thud, thud, thud! That's Greb. He never lets his man get set or gives him time to think. No one ever took the initiative away from Harry in the ring.

It is our guess that Johnny Wilson will have a very busy evening on his hands tonight.

Urge Reforestation Of Redwood Pines

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—California has 2,364,000 acres of potential forest land which should be included in the federal reforestation program, according to a report which will be submitted to the United States Senate Reforestation Committee by State Forester M. B. Pratt when the committee meets in San Francisco September 6.

The California report states that 1,638,000 acres of deforested land should be replanted and that 726,000 acres of redwood land is in need of restocking.

Wreaths made of tin that closely resemble real flowers, will keep their shape and color, even when exposed to bad weather, when used to decorate graves.

'BULL' MONTANA READY FOR BOUT

Meets John Hackenschmidt
In Glendale Monday Night
On Legion Card

By ART SHERBORNE
Of The Evening News Staff.
"Bull Montana" was a visitor in Glendale yesterday, making final plans for his wrestling match with John Hackenschmidt, Labor Day night, at 333 North Brand boulevard, under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion.

"The Bull," who is wrestling tonight in Long Beach, stated that he felt in fine condition. Without boasting, he expressed an opinion that his tussle here next Monday night probably would be quite lively.

"Bull Montana," who was christened Luigi Montagni, is known as "The Burglar-Faced Movie Star." His face is his fortune—on account of its homeliness. His motto is, "Day by day in every way I am getting homelier and homelier."

Found By Fairbanks
Douglas Fairbanks six years ago was responsible for Montagni's debut in the movies. They both happened to be in George Bothner's gymnasium in New York City. "Doug" was looking for a tough "mug" to take part in a prospective film, "In Again, Out Again." As soon as he spotted Luigi he immediately sought an introduction. Henceforth, Montagni became known as "Bull Montana"—a name which has stuck so well that very few of his friends know his real name.

One of the best known comedies in which "Bull Montana" has starred was "Rob 'em Good"—a burlesque on "Robin Hood." He played the lead as "The Earl-of-Nothing Done."

"Self-Made Man"
Montagni is a self-made man. He was born in Voghera, near Milan, Italy, May 16, 1888. When a young man he arrived at Ellis Island to make his fortune in the "New World."

America's theatrical world was first viewed by Montagni from the gallery of a Bowery theatre in New York City. During the day he drove an ice wagon and at night he kept order among "the gods."

The Bull's opinion of his ability as a "cinnamon sealer" is quite modest. As he once remarked: "There are two really great artists on the screen—John Barrymore is one of them."

Johnny Myers and several other local satellites will star also on the Legion's card in the boxing bout, according to Les Marston, matchmaker.

TAGGING ALL BASES

The Tigers were shut out by Shocker who scored his 20th victory of the season, 4 to 0, the Browns winning in spite of the absence of Williams and Severid.

Babe Ruth was at his best and the Yanks took a fall out of the Senators by a score of 4 to 3. Ruth obliged with a double, two singles and a pass.

After his care-free throw had permitted the White Sox to tie the score in the ninth, Uhl went out to the thirteenth like a one-way ticket, doubles by Sewell and Stephenson giving the Indians a 3 to 2 decision.

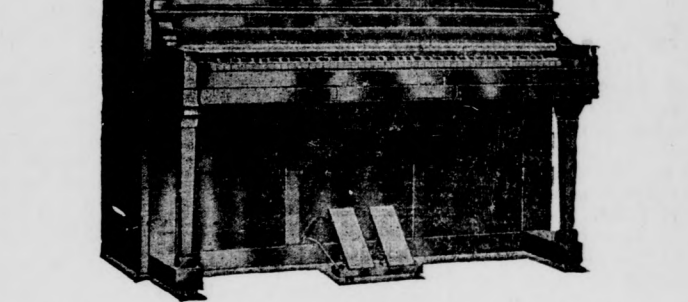

Ehmke made it five victories in as many starts against the Athletics this season by pitching the Red Sox to an 8-to-1 victory.

Sport Snaps By JACK KEENE

The New York Yankees have offered many an interesting study in baseball during the last several years, but in some respects they have surpassed themselves this season. Leading the American league by a margin which virtually precludes the possibility of defeat, the Yankees have struck their mightiest wallop when in foreign territory. On the road they are champions, hard hitting, relentless in attack and almost invulnerable in their defense. But at home they are just a baseball club and not very much of a club at that.

Of the first thirty-five ball games lost this season no fewer than twenty-one of them were lost at home. Seven were lost in the west in two trips, six on the last tour and one on the first. Seven more were dropped in between Boston, Philadelphia and Washington. The clubs which are easy when the Yankees are away from home suddenly become favored of fate or some other power and rise in might to overthrow the champions.

June was a desperate month for the Yankees at home. Out of twenty games played at the Stadium they lost ten. They had just returned from the now famous tour of the west in which they lost one game, dropped two games to Boston, two to the White Sox, three to the Indians, one to the Browns and two to the Tigers. This sudden reversal of form startled the fans—in fact, it may be said it staggered the fans. July was kind to the Yanks and they won seven out of the nine games played at home. In April they took six and lost two at home; in May they won two and lost two.

They are now into August with his dog days and what not and it would seem that they are in for another hard month. One of the first eight games played the Yankees were tossed five times and won three times. There is not very much raw beef and blood in five beatings in eight games when a team aspires to the championship of the world. The Yankees should copy from the old Browns and demand that they play the league be started and play the Giants or whichever team wins the National League pennant on the road. Then they might have a better chance of winning.

There are several good reasons why they can't win at home, but the chief reason is lack of aggressiveness. Some folks call it lack of pepper. Perhaps the long lead of the Yankees has gone to their heads. Maybe they think the fans will condone the defeats suffered at home so long as they go out and defeat the enemy abroad.

Victories wherever won are welcome, but the fan being an animal peculiar unto himself rather likes to see the team play its best at home. There is more thrill and excitement in watching one home run than in reading about a dozen.

There is little sense in trying to establish the fact that the Yankees don't fight when playing at the Stadium. They do, but only after a fashion. There is not that drive, and "never say die till you're dead" spirit that marks the games abroad. In a word, the Yankees are not the same club that they are on the road.

This inability to win at home is quite distressing to Miller Huggins, and the tiny manager has been leaping from limb to limb in the high trees, uttering shrill cries. A victory is a victory, but Huggins would rather have his brave lads and true win a few more at home and, if necessary, take the slap a few times on the road. But in any event he wants to see the Yankees win at home.

OT FIGHT MADE ON WORLD COURT

arristers Indorse Harding's Plan for Tribunal at Law Convention

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—Following the most heated debate of the session, the American Bar association today endorsed the plan for a world court proposed by President Harding. There was no roll call, and the chorus of "aays" when the motion was put was not very strong. The matter came before the session on a recommendation of the executive committee, which approved a resolution embodying the endorsement of the plan drawn by former Attorney General Wickham.

Wind Up Convention
The convention was in its last hours today, with election of officers, place of meeting for 1924, committee reports on the world court and other big matters to be debated and decided in the short time remaining before evening.

Favor Aviation
The committee on aeronautics called attention of the association today "to the international problems connected with aeronautics, particularly to the necessity for the codification of rules governing aerial warfare." The committee recommended enactment of state and federal legislation "which will encourage the development of commercial aeronautics in the United States."

The chief speaker of this morning's session was William Daper Lewis of Philadelphia, director of the American Law Institute. Debate on the world court and other committee reports will follow Mr. Lewis' address.

Alice Calhoun
Day at Glendale
Theatre Sept. 2

Personal Appearance of Star
And Autographed Photos
To Please Film Fans

"Alice Calhoun Day" always is a big event at the Glendale theatre, for the people of this city are more than pleased to welcome the petite little star of filmdom in person.

Indeed, "Our Alice" is always glad to please her adopted "Uncle Bill Howe" by visiting his house when her pictures are displayed in such magnificent quarters as the Glendale theatre.

So, by special arrangement, she will be seen in person Tuesday at the students' matinee, as well as both evening performances, when her latest picture, "The Man Next Door," is shown.

The film play is taken from the book by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon." Miss Calhoun will be seen in the role of "Bonnie Bell."

Oh, yes, autographed photos of Miss Calhoun will be presented to all attending Tuesday evening performances. Be among those present.

May Call Session to Ratify River Pact

PHOENIX, Aug. 31.—Ratification of the Colorado river compact and highway relief legislation are expected to be the major issues before a special session of the Arizona legislature which may be called some time before Christmas.

Though Governor George W. P. Hunt has declined to announce his intentions with reference to calling the legislative body together, he has issued proclamations for two special elections for the purpose of filling vacancies, and the pact issue has been injected in sizing up the merits of candidates to be voted on September 4.

SUNLAND

SCHOOL TO OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 11

Principal Gets Acquainted
With Parents; Ball Game
Is Announced

School will open on September 11 in Sunland for the coming term. The trustees of the district are having the grounds about the new school building improved. The front has been graded and prepared for a lawn and flowers. The grounds on the east side of the building are being equipped with up to date playground equipment and put in shape for athletic games.

Mr. Creighton, who has been appointed principal of the school, is making his home at the Monte Vista hotel. He is improving the intervening time by becoming acquainted with the parents of the district.

Miss Hazel Pester, intermediate grades teacher, will soon take possession of her new home that is being finished for her in Sunland Mesa.

Mrs. Mills, teacher of primary grades, is at present in Cleveland, Ohio, but expects to return before school opens.

The board of trustees has added two subjects to the courses this year. Cooking and sewing will be taught by Mrs. Mills. An electric range and other kitchen equipment is being installed in the old school building for the domestic science classes.

Visiting Seattle
A. Adams, Jr., is on a business trip to Seattle, Washington. Mrs. Adams accompanied him on the trip.

Mrs. B. F. Mears has returned from a vacation trip to San Francisco with friends.

E. F. Zancaster and son, Paul, are on an automobile trip to Cleveland, Ohio. They expect to visit friends in Iowa and Missouri en route.

The Tujunga valley base ball club expects to blossom out in new uniforms soon.

Mr. Jeffries of Tujunga, an enthusiastic baseball fan, is waging a campaign to create wider interest in the club and raise money for new equipment. Mr. Jeffries is also a thorough business man and recognizes the advertising value to the community of a good ball club in the field. He is especially one playing in the semi-professional ranks of the Southern California Base Ball Managers' Association, where the teams visit towns in all parts of Southern California. Tujunga valley was the runner-up in last winter's Santa Ana league and club, with new equipment, the club hopes to enter one of the various leagues this winter.

START HUNT FOR DEATH SUSPECTS

'Acid Bandits' Responsible For Fatal Injuries to Author, Is Theory

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—The death in Loamshire hospital here today of Herbert Jones, aged 36, a rich writer of New York and San Francisco, caused the police to begin a hunt for "acid bandits" who are suspected of having caused his death.

Jones was found unconscious in his palatial cabin in the Santa Monica mountains near here yesterday by J. F. Natteford, a writer friend of New York.

Dr. J. S. Kelsey, who attended Jones, said Jones' death was hastened by reason of an overdose of veronal.

Police Blame Bandits
Jones recently inherited considerable money from the estate of his mother and it is the police theory that bandits learned of this and believed Jones had considerable money in his cabin. Acid burns were found all over his body, indicating, the police believe, that Jones was tortured to reveal the hiding place of the supposed money.

The dead man's wife arrived from San Francisco last night. She was at his bedside when he died.

Will Hold Auto Show
At Riverside Fair
RIVERSIDE, Aug. 31.—Plans for the auto show at the Southern California fair at Riverside this fall have been made, and more space has been secured than ever before used. A tent 450 feet long and 100 feet wide, beautifully decorated, neatly arranged and well lighted, has been allotted to the automotive department of the fair.

Space in this big tent is being taken rapidly in large blocks and a month before the fair opens it is evident that all available room will be allotted and sold. All makes of cars, trucks and tractors will be on exhibit, and the tent is so arranged so as to form a thoroughfare through the grounds.

CHRISTEN BABY
The son born last Saturday, August 25, 1923, to Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Jones, proprietors of the Dinner Bell cafe, at their home at 3023 Rosslyn street, has been christened Robert Eugene.

Temperature of the sun is estimated to be 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

ENJOY VACATION
Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Croft and son of 1753 Gard-ave. are writing of a vacation trip they are enjoying. They say on a card from Tehachapi: "We spent ten days here, also visited a 30,000-acre ranch in Bear valley, drove through 200 acres of apples and pears. We leave Friday for Bishop."

FINE ARTS STUDIO OPENING SUNDAY

Laura Lee Sweet Will Have Exhibition for Public at Moon Festival

Sunday, September 2, has been set aside by Laura Lee Sweet as the opening day for her fine art studio, now being rushed to completion.

This building and the spacious grounds on Michigan avenue at the corner of Hillhaven road is to be the home of Tujunga valley's art and literary colony. Many names already known to the public are among those making their permanent home and who get the inspiration for their work from the grandeur of the hills and canyons of the valley. Foremost among those names will be found that of John Steven McCroarty, who has for years made his home at the foot of the peak that was recently named in his honor. He has made the Verdugo hills famous in prose and verse.

There are many others who wield the brushes and palettes who are not unknown to the picture-loving public, and for this reason Mrs. Sweet has built the clubhouse and taken definite steps to form an art and literary association for the purpose of promoting art in all its branches and encouraging undeveloped talent.

All visitors to the Moon Festival are especially invited by Mrs. Sweet to inspect the studio and register for membership. Proficiency in the arts is not required, interest in their promotion and development being all the qualification necessary.

Hold Special Exhibit
In this connection there will be a special exhibit held at the time, and local artists will have on display some of their creations. It will be exclusively for the benefit of the public, and no prizes will be given at that time to exhibitors.

There will, however, be a painting given away at 10 o'clock Sunday evening. Everyone registering for membership will receive a ticket, and one of these will win the painting.

The exhibit will be open all during the Moon Festival, but the formal opening will not take place until Sunday evening.

Among the exhibits will be specimens of oil and water paintings, drawings, brass and other metal work, pottery, china paintings, fine needlework, leather work, bead work and other examples of handicraft produced by residents of the valley. It will be a strictly local representation of art.

The studio will be unique and an artistic exhibit in itself. It is built well back from the street to allow commodious parking space. The grounds will be artistically landscaped, with arbors and rustic benches conveniently placed.

A terraced pergola of olive wood forms the front. Timber for this pergola was obtained from trees removed from the Olive Grove in Sunland when it was subdivided and streets cut through. George Harris is supervising the rustic work. Wide stone steps lead to the entrance and terraced lawns are planted with lawns and flowers.

Describes Interior
The main salon of the studio is thirty feet square, with a trussed roof, beam ceiling type. There will be a sun parlor or room garden above this room, reached by way of a stone stairway circling the chimney of a huge fireplace.

The chimney and fireplace are built of weathered stone in a rustic design.

Dull black will be the color used for the baseboards and wainscoting, with straw color above.

Narrow windows, just under the plate, completely around the room will diffuse the light for the desired effect on the paintings. French doors will predominate.

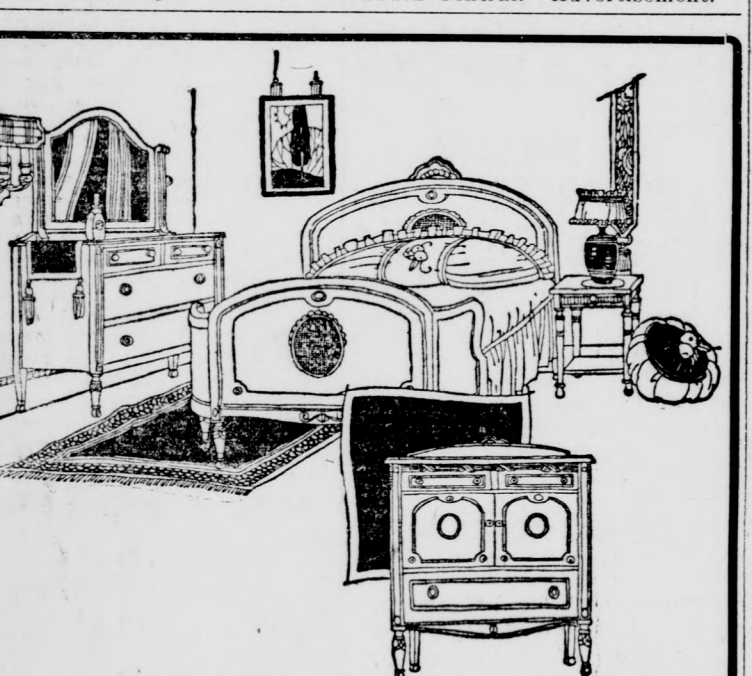

Lanterns and andirons are being made by A. B. Pinson, who is an expert in artistic wrought iron work. James Robbins is framing the trusses for the roof.

The finished building will be a fitting center of activity for the colony.

Constable On Job
A. M. Jenkins has been appointed deputy constable and assigned to duty in Big Tujunga canyon, in accordance with the announcement made by the supervisor of this district that the canyon would be policed in summer months.

Liquor activities in the canyon are believed to have been the cause of at least one recent fatal accident, and previous violations of the law are believed to be the cause of this move by the authorities.

Stefansson Depends On Captain Noice

through the Aleutian Islands and Bering Strait to this large, barren island, Stefansson is in London, negotiating with the English government to put up capital for taking over and colonizing the land, which he claims supports millions of head of caribou and is vastly rich in deposits of gold.

The mother's story of young Capt. Noice's experiences since 1915 reads like a romantic novel, such as Rex Beach or the late Jack London might have written. Prior to last February, the Noice family lived in Seattle, Wash. In 1915 Harold Noice, seeking adventure, shipped on the "Polar Bear," in command of Captain Louis Lane, a well-known northern figure. At first there was some thought of a film-making venture, but that failed to materialize so Lane cruised to Hershel Island, where, in a storm, they saw a man running along the shore.

Rescue Stefansson
It was Vilhjalmur Stefansson, who had been marooned there for one and one-half years and was thought by the world to be dead.

With him were two other white men, Anderson and Storkerson. Captain Lane took them aboard and as Stefansson wanted to do further exploring, they worked north to Wrangel Island and continued on north until they found above latitude 80, a new land. They then worked down to Bankland, where Stefansson chartered and later bought the "Polar Bear."

It was because of the recommendation of young Noice to the explorer by Captain Lane that all the rest of the marvelous adventures in the ensuing years took place, landing this broad-shouldered, six-footed chap of under 30 his present post as "Commander of the Stefansson Wrangel Island Relief Expedition."

Has Written Book
So much like fiction do Captain Harold Noice's adventures read that he has written them in book form and the volume is in the hands of a New York publisher at the present time. It will be out in about three months, his mother says.

Captain Noice has also written an "Eskimo Dictionary," embodying the results of four years' life right in the igloos of these extraordinary folk, whom he found to be decidedly psychic and given to seances and spirit control. They also kill off a large percentage of their female babies, he found, this practice being considered quite moral.

When Captain Harold Noice came out of the North in 1921, by dog-train, snowshoes, schooner and steam packet, after having been to latitude 82, longitude 120 west, or within 500 miles of the Pole, he carried with him one of the finest collections of Eskimo implements and articles of clothing ever brought to this or any other country, in the opinion of scientists.

Came Home Famous
Late in 1921, after an absence of six years in that great frozen, silent Arctic Circle, Captain Noice returned to his home in Seattle. He had gone away an unknown, adventuresome boy; he came back a world-famous man; named for his scientific researches among the rare tribes of Copper Eskimos and for his mastery of their phonetic language.

In March of 1922 Captain Noice went to New York, where he joined Stefansson. It was there that he wrote his two books. And it was there that he received this cablegram from Stefansson in London, commissioning him captain of the Wrangel Island Relief Expedition.

Returning to Seattle, he speedily purchased his scientific equipment and supplies, chartered the "Donaldson," hired a pilot crew—and without being able to see his mother before he left—left the family had left Seattle and moved to York boulevard, here in our community—Captain Harold Noice set out early in the summer of this year on another long cruise back into the silent, frozen North.

Reds Threaten Seizure
A communication received by his parents, dated Point Hope, Alaska, August 9, via Nome, states at that time the "Donaldson" was about to weigh anchor for the last leg of the long northern run. The communication tells of innumerable difficulties, including a mutiny of Eskimos, engine trouble, resignation of the ship-master and threat of seizure by the soviet government of Russia, who also claim Wrangel Island.

And so, while his parents await further word from their courageous son who is battling northward through the icy silence, faced with many problems that may spell defeat or even disaster, Captain Harold Noice, 28-year-old scientist—commander of one of the greatest relief expeditions ever sent into the Land of the Midnight Sun, stands on the deck of a little 70-foot schooner, somewhere in those vast, echoing waters of the Arctic Sea, straining his eyes to catch sight of a barren, desolate strip of land known as Wrangel Island, on which are marooned, as "home steads" of the British flag, three Americans, one Canadian and an Eskimo family—Allan R. Crawford, the leader, son of Professor and Mrs. J. T. Crawford, of Toronto, Can.; Frederic Maurer, of New Philadelphia, Ohio; Lorne E. Knight, of McMinville, Ore., and Milton Galle, of New Braunfels, Texas.

PAJAMAS COURT HELD
NEWHALL, Aug. 31.—Attired in pajamas and over them a pair of overalls to keep his legs warm, Ev-Judge W. A. Miller shortly before daylight today called his court to order to hear liquor law violation charges. James Gish was fined $600, and the court held S. S. Gish, James and John Sherman and Hobart Webster for trial. The men were arrested in raids in this vicinity.

$75 SHINE MAKES MAX TUFF ROUGH

He Would Do Dire Things to Those Who Took Kale
for Polishing Dome

By ROLAND KREBS
For International News Service

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—When Max S. Tuff goes to the movies and sees sheik lovers getting away with murder just because they have their hair all starched and gleaming and vaselined it makes him sick.

Mr. Tuff is only 30 years old, but as bald as a cold fat. Compared to him, cue balls braid their hair down their back. With his hair on he's not such a bad-looking blade, but when he goes about with his head naked no one has to follow him with a club to beat off the smitten beauties.

Tuff read the advertisements of a Chicago concern whose experts could make hair bloom by the shock, sheaf or pound—anyway the customer wished.

For the trifling matter of $75—yes, seventy-five meg, the concern was willing to grow petunias, nasturtiums, Brussels sprouts or hair on Tuff.

He took the whole course of twenty treatments. Beautiful young women anointed his brilliant ivory stock with aromatic oils, essences and what not. He sent away each time smelling like a $50 funeral.

All he got out of it was a 900 candle power shine to his pate. Twenty treatments, seventy-five chips, and no more hair on his head than on his teeth.

That's why Tuff went to municipal court today to see if he couldn't have some one sued or arrested or shot or something.

Date Exhibit at Fair Will Show Varieties
RIVERSIDE, Aug. 31.—The Date show at the Southern California fair at Riverside this fall is a new feature which is attracting a great deal of attention. The date industry, which is largely centered in the Coachella valley, although other desert sections are successfully growing dates, is something comparatively new in the line of agricultural products. However, it is rapidly developing into one of the leading industries of the country. While the general nature of this culture is little known, it is a very interesting and attractive crop, and lends itself to a very wide variety of production and commercial use. Ev-Judge W. A. Miller shortly before daylight today called his court to order to hear liquor law violation charges. James Gish was fined $600, and the court held S. S. Gish, James and John Sherman and Hobart Webster for trial. The men were arrested in raids in this vicinity.

Preacher, Aged 76, Glutton for Labor

MILFORD, Aug. 31.—Rev. Alexander Hamilton has set the pace for ministers above the 75-year mark by his day's work on a recent Sunday when the mercury soared into the early hundreds. Hamilton, who was ordained 53 years back in the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, conducted services in two local churches that Sunday morning, performed the funeral offices for two deceased citizens in the afternoon and mounted the Chautauqua platform for a long lecture in the evening. To cap the climax the rector, who is 76, traveled 40 miles by auto to be ready to perform a wedding ceremony at 8 a. m. the next day.

ATHLETES COMPETING
CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—America's leading track athletes, many of them holders of national and world records, will compete in the national A. A. U. track and field championships opening at Stagg field this afternoon. Junior championships will be decided today, senior tomorrow the relays and decathlon Monday.

Chocolate-flavored milk, put up in pint and half-pint bottles, is sold by a Chicago dairy company.

IN NAVAL PLANSHuge Navy Base at Singapore Causes British Labor
To Make ProtestBy LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News ServiceLONDON, Aug. 31.—The Britain's plan for a huge naval base at Singapore a bulwark of the Empire's defense or a gesture of preparation for the next war?This issue was clearly raised by opponents of the scheme during the debate in the House of Commons which preceded passage of the naval vote for funds to construct the Singapore stronghold.Arguments that fortification of Singapore signals the beginning of a new era of armaments that will lead England into war either with America or with Japan were hurled at the government by parliamentarians opposed to spending huge sums to develop the proposed naval base in the Pacific.Counter arguments of government supporters, of course, dis-claimed all purpose of building for another war and protested Britain's peaceful intentions. The vigor of the attack, however, left no room for doubt that much sentiment exists in responsible British public opinion that the Singapore plan is merely a continuation of the armament race which culminated in 1914 in the great World War.Labor led the attack upon the Singapore scheme, with many Liberal members supporting the Laborites. The Labor men frankly charged the government with preparing for a new war and warned that the workers of the country would not rally to the support of the nation as they did in the last great conflict.The working people of this country are convinced that the time has come for taking a more definite stand against war," said
Jack Jones, ever an outspoken champion of Labor's policies. "Let those who make war fight them, for the workers won't."White Versus Yellow
The specter of a race war between the white men and the yellow races was raised by several speakers. Captain John Hay, a Laborite, was among them.After the greatest of all wars, a war to end war," he said, "we are looking forward to and preparing for another war which may mean the end of the white man.
This base can only be meant against one power, Japan. Our people would never tolerate the idea of war with America. That being so, the war, when it comes, will be a race war, white against yellow, and the yellow man probably will be reinforced by the black. The government is throwing out a challenge that will stimulate naval armaments in Japan and in the Dutch East Indies. The government is gambling with the fate of the Empire."George Lambert, a Liberal, likewise saw a threat of war with Japan in the government's proposal. "I hate to talk about a war with Japan," he declared,
"but this scheme makes one think of it."Scotts at Claims
The government's contention that the Singapore base was needed for the defense of the Empire was openly scoffed at by Alfred Short, one of the leaders of the Labor party.Against whom is this defense needed?" he asked. "Similar policies have been pursued hitherto by European nations and it has not dispelled the fears, suspicions and hatreds that have been engendered and have culminated in war. We have no guaranteethat we shall develop this base merely as a defense for our trade and that it will not end finally in war."Government supporters did not deny the charge that the possibility of future wars was a consideration figuring in the Singapore proposal. Preparation for war was a guarantee of peace was frankly urged by several Conservative members."For heaven's sake, be prepared for war," was the admonition hurled by Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt, a veteran fighter of the British navy. "A base at Singapore is important for peace purposes, and if you don't keep abreast of the times you are going under. Let us keep our Empire Give us Singapore and you will then be fairly safe—it is on the direct line to Australia."Admiral Gaunt's view was supported by Sir Frederick Banbury
in a candid Tory broadside.Guarantee of Peace
"The only precaution for peace and against war is to prepare for war and to show other countries that we intend to protect our position," he said. "If England will learn the lessons of the war we will have a strong army and navy."Strong attacks also were made against the proposal by members who urged that the cost would eventually far exceed the original estimate of approximately $50-000,000. Commander Kenworthy, a Liberal, contended that it would be necessary to double the fleet and build up a strong air force
"to defend this nerve center of the Empire." Kenworthy declared that if there were danger of a war with Japan Singapore was a strong strategic point, but he scoffed at the idea that England ever would fight Japan.Lady Astor also raised a protest against the plan, albeit the protest was a mild one. She expressed regret that the government had not waited until after the Imperial Conference, which is to be held soon, before considering the base at Singapore. She declared, however, that if "we are really to have a progressive civilization the Anglo-Saxon has got to police the world."

ON HORSE RACESTeacher Tells Parliament of Gambling Among Young
English ChildrenLONDON, Aug. 31.—That 40 per cent of the children in the poorer districts of London regularly make bets on the races, often as low as a penny, has been revealed to the House of Commons committee on betting.The chief evidence was given by "Miss Blank," a teacher in one of the poorest and most densely populated districts of London. She asked not to have her name disclosed for fear of violence from the parents of her habitual young gamblers."The average age in my class is eleven and one-half years," she said. "Nineteen out of the forty-two boys have admitted to me that they bet regularly on horse racing. Many of them bet three and four times a week.""On the average their bets are about a penny a time. They hand the money over to a shopkeeper, who, in turn delivers it to a book-maker. At the end of the afternoon the boys call in at the shop to collect their winnings, if any."They study the racing news in the newspapers regularly. They know all about the form of horses and their past records. One of my scholars informs me that he buys
a 'tip' every day for threepence and sells it to his schoolfellows for one halfpenny each.""Another boy says he is betting in order to save up enough to start himself in business. So far, he says, he has put away thirty shillings in the bank—all from betting."This lady's evidence seemed to horrify the committee, but their task is not to stop betting. It is to ascertain whether it is practicable to tax betting for revenue purposes.

A GORGIFEROUS FANTORGIOUS BUG SEEN IN BURBANK

Professor Radiant Lectures
On Oddity Possessed
By Realty Firm

A gorgiferous, fantorgious bug, the like of which has never before been seen in Burbank—or anywhere else, for that matter!—has been blocking the traffic in front of the window of Simpson & Wilson, realty dealers, 215 West San Fernando boulevard. It was described to The Glendale Evening News reporter by Professor Radiant as follows, with a sketch of the "prof" doing his stuff:

"This dastardly, diabolical crustacean, this atrocious, awesome insect of the sub-order Heteroptera, or in a broader sense the order Hemiptera—in short, this grinning, groping, grisly gargoyle—named by K. K. Simpson the 'Hum Bug' and said to be the product of spontaneous combustion with the English reversed, is hollow, with the ears and tail projecting into the hollow space, and when it wants to hide it runs into a corner and pulls the corner in after it."

Tail Like Movie Film

"In appearance, this wonderful, marvelous bug is green like Paris green, has a tall like a movie film, ears like feet, like ears, eyes like—well, like nothing that could possibly be imagined—and a beard so heavy that it has to shave twice a day. "One looking at this wonderful Hum Bug long enough will see its glassy eyes wobble evilly, will see its ears give a naughty shake, a vigorous shimmy, so to speak. In fact, if one stares long enough, he (or she) will look in his (or her) shoes every morning before putting them on, for several years, lest such a crustacean might lurk there!"

Army Airmen to Start On 6300 Mile Flight

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Two army airmen are preparing for a 6,300-mile air jaunt about the United States—a path-finding tour along routes infrequently taken by planes. A De Havilland plane, manned by Lieutenants Victor E. Bertrando of San Francisco and Kenneth Garret of Memphis, will hop off Saturday. They will pay their own expenses, the government supplying only the fuel for the trip.

Bygone Days In Verdugo Home Place Are Recalled By Old Timer's Account

By OLD TIMER
A GLIMPSE of white-washed walls on the hillside, a familiar bend of the road, and, while the motor rolls swiftly along the broad boulevard through the Verdugo hills, Time turns back, a picture comes to mind—

One of the writer's pleasant memories of earlier days in Glendale is of a six weeks' stay in the old adobe ranch house of the Verdugos on the sunny eastern slope of the Verdugo hills.

It was after the original owners had moved to their new home farther south on the Verdugo road, following the death of Don Teodoro, that the development company which acquired Verdugo Park and the homestead had repaired the old "dobe" and furnished it in a somewhat picturesque manner, that this pleasure was enjoyed.

By the Hearthfire
Arriving at early dusk at the ranch house in the fall of 1909, a roaring fire soon blazed in the big fireplace, and ever after as night fell this welcome shone out the open door to the members of the family or the chance visitors, of whom there were many during the sojourn there.

Hugging the east hills of the valley winding its picturesque way was Verdugo road, which has been so beautifully described in a poem, "The Road to La Crescenta," by Mrs. Ellen Newcomb, a pioneer of Glendale, mother of Mrs. M. L. Tight, Mrs. Walter Frayley and C. J. Newcomb.

At a bend in the road almost directly east of the old home the highway was abandoned and a dash down the hill over the little rustic bridge across the brook brought you to the ranch house. The rustic bridge is now a substantial concrete affair and the shady road is known as Opechee Way and leads to many handsome, modern homes.

Changes in Road
Old-timers say, and I think it is verified by Mrs. S. L. Ward, whose father, Dr. Briggs, built "The Terrace," as the old Briggs place in the hills north of Crescenta was called, that the highway used to pass directly in front of the ranch house and not on the east side of the valley as at present. The land was leased to several Chinese for vegetable gardening and the depredations of passersby were so annoying that the supervisors were petitioned by the owners to change to its present location.

But the favorite road on the west side of the canyon was not so well known as it led along the tumbling waters of the little brook, on shady paths through old Verdugo Park, which during the time of the Verdugos was a private amusement park with a high-board fence around it and a locked gate.

An earlier visit to the park found an old dance hall, in appearance more like the big barns of the middle west. An old piano exposed to all kinds of weather was the orchestra for the excursion crowds which came up at intervals during the summer on the old Salt Lake line.

This hall, however, had disappeared by 1909 and with it the (Continued on Page 6)

GLENDALE'S O. E. S. SENDS DELEGATES

San Francisco Will Enjoy
Two Conventions Week
Of October 16-19

Miss Mildred Lyon, worthy matron; Mrs. Jennie A. Phillips, associate matron; Mrs. Mayme Pollock and Mrs. Orma Vesper Naudain, past worthy matrons, and other officers and members of the Glen Eyrle chapter, No. 237, Order of Eastern Star, of Glendale, are anticipating with keen pleasure going north in October to attend the fiftieth annual convention and golden jubilee of the order. Elaborate plans are being perfected for the convention October 16 to 19.

Mrs. Effie Easton, junior past grand matron of the order, is general chairman of the convention committee, and is directing plans for entertaining more than 10,000 voting delegates and their friends from all parts of the state.

Several hotels have been entirely taken over by the convention for the jubilee week. "We can supply hotel accommodations for every Eastern Star delegate and their friends who desire to come to San Francisco October 16 to 19, provided our headquarters are notified immediately," announces Mrs. Easton.

"As delegates must make reservations through our headquarters prior to October 12, it behooves every visitor to the convention to make application right away. The American Legion convention is to be held in San Francisco the same dates as our convention and we must turn over all rooms to the Legion not reserved up to October 12."

Meetings of the convention will be held in the Scottish Rite hall. Rest rooms are being provided and a luncheon committee will supervise daily luncheons, which will avoid the necessity of delegates leaving the convention building.

WAYFARER'S CAST HAS 7000 ACTORS

Many From Glendale Will Be
In Chorus of Great
Passion Pageant

America's passion pageant, "The Wayfarer," which a cast of 7000 Southern Californians will present in the new Los Angeles Coliseum at Exposition Park from September 8 to 15, is to be produced on so enormous a scale that those who are managing it claim it will be one of the most costly productions ever conceived for an American stage. "The Wayfarer" which is a combination of grand opera and drama, will cost approximately $125,000 for the seven performances that are to be given, according to Merle Armitage, secretary and business manager.

A portion of the cast is now being directed by Montgomery Lynch, assisted by Maestro William Tyroler and Hugo Kirchhofer in the auditorium and gymnasium of the University of Southern California. More than 3000 additional characters are needed to swell the chorus and pageant to its quota of 7000. There will be 4000 voices in the chorus, of which 2000 already have been secured, many of whom will come from Glendale.

Some Figures Given
The play will be held on the largest stage in the world, one having a proscenium arch ninety feet high, and a width of 150 feet. One may see the enormous size of this stage by visualizing the climax, "The March of the Nations," in which the entire cast of 7000 persons is to appear on the stage at once and kneel before a great illuminated cross, singing the "Hallelujah" chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

This stage will cost in excess of $20,000 to construct and will require seven carloads of scenery, valued at $285,000, which is being rented from an eastern Wayfarer society.

Smooth Out Tangle in Doran Street Opening

A misunderstanding in regard to the opening of Doran street between Glendale avenue and Adams street was straightened out last night before the City Council.

Objection to having his property included in the assessment district was made by Carl W. Schwitters of 525 North Adams street. He inquired why condemnation proceedings had been started for all the property needed for the new street when an agreement had been reached that half of it was to be deeded to the city.

Mrs. Mabel L. Tight of 505 North Adams street and E. W. Woodmansey of 514 North Glendale avenue, who previously promised to dedicate half the length of the proposed street, stated that they were perfectly willing to carry out this agreement.

Reputed because of jokes ascribed to him, Joe Miller really was a very serious-minded actor, who climbed to a place of prominence in serious plays long before his death, which was August 15, 1738.

TWIXT THE DEVIL AND DEEP SEA

$500 FINE, ALSO $4000 LOSS IN 720 QUARTS SAKE

Officer Louis Nunn Scores
One More Conviction
In City Court

Broadway ran a rivulet of rice wine yesterday afternoon. Clerks dashed from stores to the gutters to get some of it.

Photographers took pictures of the performance while policemen at the city hall did as they were bid, for—

Seven hundred and twenty quart bottles of sake, which was held as evidence in the case of Y. Yamimoda of San Jose, charged with transporting liquor, were ordered destroyed yesterday by Judge F. H. Lowe after he had sentenced Yamimoda to a fine of $500. The owner entered a plea of guilty, through his attorneys, Clara Woolwine and James Hosick, both of Los Angeles.

Digs Out Bottles
When Yamimoda was arrested by Officer Louis Nunn the 720 quarts were wrapped up in bales in such a fashion as to fool even the most experienced sleuth, but Officer Nunn, who has blasted the hopes of more bootleggers than any other man in this region, took Yamimoda and his cargo into camp for investigation and ended by digging the bottles out of the wrappings in which they had jolted all the way down from San Jose to Glendale. The city's bacteriologist found the sake had 22 per cent alcohol.

Officer Nunn also recently captured a still that was riding attached to the bottom of an automobile, taking both the still and the driver under his care until the court could dispose of the case.

Verily, he is the original "hoohoo hound" of the Glendale police department.

BUSINESS ETHICS ROTARY SUBJECT

Owen C. Emery Presides
Over Program Held at Egyptian Village

The Glendale Rotary club's weekly noon luncheon, which was held yesterday in Jensen's Egyptian Village on North Brand boulevard, was in charge of Attorney Owen C. Emery, as chairman of the business methods committee.

The program permitted several members to give brief talks on "Business Ethics," among those who spoke being Francis J. W. Henry, George H. Bentley, Valentine M. Hollister and J. A. Newton.

The theme emphasized by the speakers was that modern business is developing a higher standard of conduct between man and his fellow man, and that service to humanity must be placed above self.

Rev. Ford Recites Poem
William Hunter presented a report on the new constitution. Rev. Ernest E. Ford read an original poem on his receiving the red rose Rotarians always send fellow members on their birthdays.

President George B. Karr of the club had as his special guest Gene E. Kuder, of Parsons, Kans., past president of the Parsons Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis club of that city.

Mr. Kuder, who has been working for the "White Way" of Parsons, was greatly interested in the system of street lighting on Brand boulevard, San Fernando road, East Broadway and elsewhere in Glendale.

Several visiting Rotarians were introduced and considerable enthusiasm was evidenced with songs and orchestra entertainment.

Name Press Day on State Fair Program

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—Everything is set for the California Press Association day, which is Saturday and the opening day, at the state fair in Sacramento.

Editors from all over the state, whether they are members of the association or not, are expected. The idea is to make it a big grand occasion for those who mold public opinion through their papers in California.

There is going to be a big "Dutch treat" feed at the fair grounds at noon on that day. But before the newspaper men come out they will meet at the Sacramento hotel in a sort of informal get-together gathering, don their badges and proceed to the fair grounds, where they will hold a sort of informal reception with Governor Friend W. Richardson, president of the association.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—Articles of incorporation of the supreme council of the Knights of Liberty, apparently an anti-Klan organization, have been filed with Secretary of State Jordan.

Hunt Girl Suspected Of Aiding Jail Break

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Federal, state, county and city authorities in the Pacific coast states have organized a country-wide search for Marlene McNeesse, a pretty Louisiana girl who is suspected by the federal authorities of having engineered the escape from McNeil's Island of J. H. Herald, Los Angeles automobile thief. Herald was recaptured shortly after his break for liberty.

Labor Officials Keep Hands Off Coal War

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and the full executive committee of the federation are continuing their meetings here, preparing resolutions for the annual convention to be held October 1. TODAY—"Weak-Kneed" Jurors Criticized.

By DOROTHY HUSKE
For International News Service

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31.—The jury system—colored by the barristers as the "brightest star in the firmament of justice"—sometimes skids in its orbit or hits a meteor and puts the whole legal universe off schedule. Take, for instance, the jury in the recent Whitfield murder case here, denounced by Prosecutor E. C. Stanton and Trial Judge Frank Phillips for returning "the most weak-kneed verdict in the history of Cuyahoga county courts." The jury, composed of nine men and three women, after listening to testimony and arguments of counsel for nearly three weeks deliberated for eight hours and then brought in a verdict of "guilty of murder in the first-degree as charged in the indictment"—but the verdict was tempered with a recommendation for mercy. And therein lies the weak-kneed part. "This verdict," said Judge Phillips as he pronounced sentence, "leads me to believe that no jury will bring in a death verdict in the face of any conceivable set of circumstances. It is most discouraging to officials of the law. It emboldens criminals." The judge added, declaring that he "would have felt a degree of satisfaction" in pronouncing the death sentence upon Whitfield, whom he termed a "bold and heartless murderer."

"My Personal Experience with Jurors I have known," as the possible title of a book, if Bailiff Bruce Boutall were to write, all he's seen and heard since he has been taking charge of juries, would contain a host of amusing incidents. His duties are many and varied, for he acts as general mediator of the jurymen's personal affairs during the period they are "locked up." In addition he censors all mail sent or received by his jurymen, carefully clips all prejudicial material from the daily papers and keeps a constant vigil to prevent any possible "tampering." Valet service is even included in the bailiff's manifold duties.

"I had to show three men—members of a murder jury—how to turn on the bath water in the hotel where we were quartered," he related.

"The expression on their faces tell plainly what the verdict will be," says Miss Helen Walk, woman bailiff for Judge Phillips' court. Miss Walk's constant association with jurymen has enabled her to "read them like a book," and this knowledge leads her to correctly predict the verdict, almost invariably.

"Women jurors aren't the sentimentalists that men are," says Miss Walk. "They have no qualms about the death chair, if the evidence warrants it."

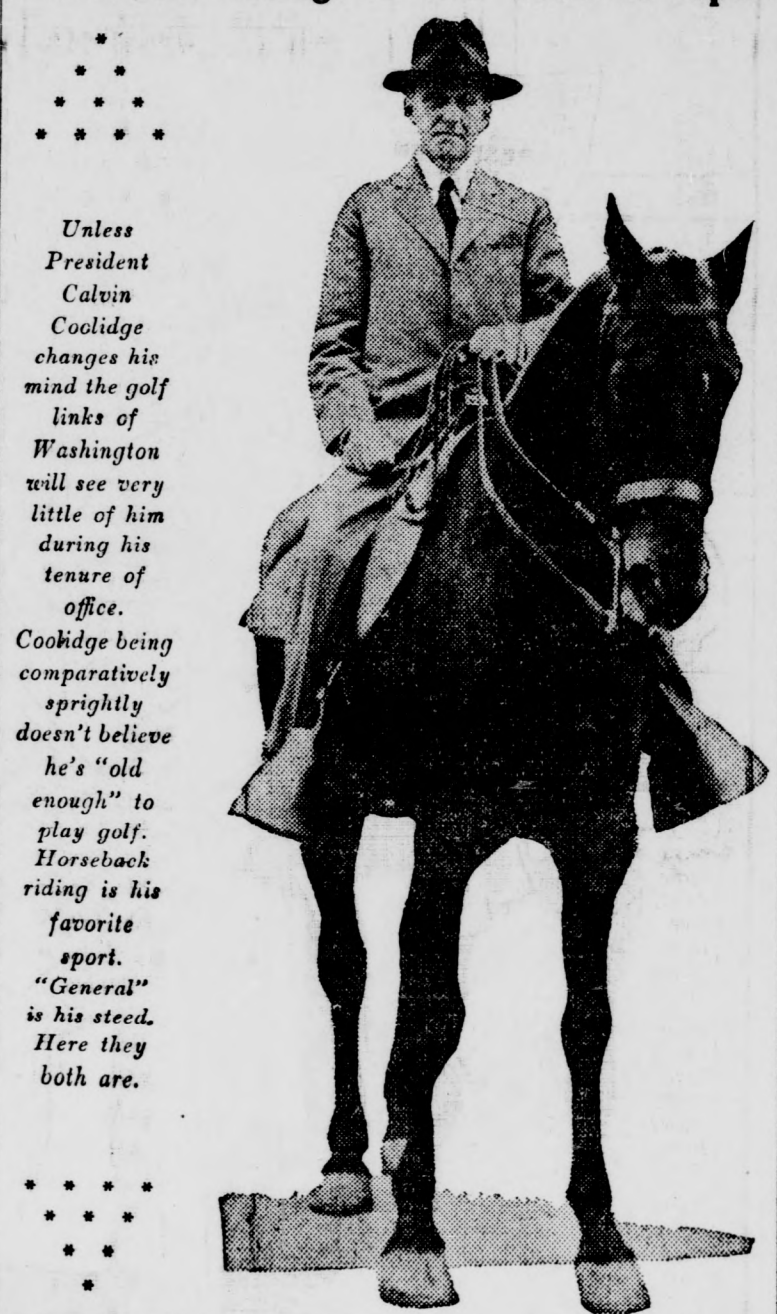

But the price of justice is high, and if you don't believe it just examine the bills in the office of the clerk of courts. Feeding jurors for the last month cost Cuyahoga county $1000.

"When a case goes to the jury late in the afternoon a verdict is rarely ever brought in until 7 or 8 o'clock in the evening," says Deputy Clerk John Wainwright, who has seen it work "nine times out of ten."

"Why? Because they want one more meal on the county before they begin to deliberate," he laughs.

Timely Views of World Topics

"CHINESE GENIUS DUE TO BRING BETTER INDUSTRIAL ORDER THERE," SAY EXPERTS

Although neither the organization of labor nor social legislation in China has kept pace with the comparatively rapid industrial development during the last few years, the Chinese have such a fundamental genius for dealing with social problems and such a solidarity of outlook as to warrant the hope of working out a constructive policy that will lead to a better industrial order in the not-too-distant future. Such are the views expressed by J. B. Taylor, acting president of Peking University, and Miss W. T. Zung, a social worker, in an exhaustive article on "Labor and Industry in China," published in the July number of the International Labor Review of the International Labor Office of the League of Nations.

"The rapidity of the movement in recent years may be indicated by a few figures relating to the risen out of food ads. One slogan which posters us day and night is this one:

"Be an American, eat spaghetti."

Another:

"Be a Chinaman, eat rice."

Here's ours:

"BE A HORSE, EAT CORN."

If you don't believe corn is the ideal staff of life, ask anybody you happen to meet. Ask Jerry, traffic cop down at the corner, or Gusieppe, who wops your shoes when you go to the barber's parlor. If you can swing somebody for a 2-cent stamp, write and ask the Department of Agriculture and receive four bushels of statistics on the subject.

The answers will all be the same. Corn has more press agents in this country today than all the movie stars combined.

There are more people boosting corn and fewer people eating it than ever before in the history of the world.

Anti-soviet leader predicts the fall of Bolshevism next year. That is safe. "Next year," like "tomorrow," seldom gets here.

The saddest words of tongue or pen: "Having a fine time. Wish you were here."

premier industry, cotton spinning," says the article. "During the period of high prices due to the war huge profits were made and much of this money is being used for development. How swift the resulting expansion is proving may be seen from the fact that, while in 1915 only 1,000,000 spindles were in operation, by August, 1922, there were almost 2,000,000, with 150,000 more in process of erection and 1,400,000 others estimated on orders. The general trade depression has greatly diminished profits, but there is every prospect of continued expansion.

Rapid Progress in Industries

"While the growth of other industries has not been so spectacular, rapid progress is being made in various branches of engineering, in electric installation of egg products, in printing works, of pressing mills, cement works, match factories and a number of other industries. In mineral enterprise, coal mining occupies first place. The output of coal can be increased as soon as the market warrants expansion.

"The Chinese are rapidly acquiring the technique of modern industry. Chinese engineers have successfully undertaken large construction work and are steadily gaining in experience. Mere attainment has been given to the training of engineers than to that of the lower but essential ranks, such as foremen and workmen engaged in specially skilled or responsible work. One of the great tasks in the industrialization of China is to build up a skilled industrial population, the lack of which is seen, not only in the low individual output, but more particularly in the rapid depreciation of machinery.

Old Industry and New

"When we turn to modern industry we find conditions which, though in many respects better than the old, would be deemed intolerable elsewhere. With few exceptions, they are characterized by long hours, low wages, night work, the work of women, employment of children, the lack of any recognized rest-day, and the general absence of protection of the workers. In some of the newer and larger factories such matters as ventilation and dust prevention have received attention, but on the whole too little is done to remove dust, fluff and fume."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND RUSTY TAIL

"There he is again! Chase after him!"

"That's right! Catch him if you can, Billie!"

Uncle Wiggily, hopping along through the woods, heard these words, as he stopped to rest under a big tree. There was a rustling sound in the branches, and Johnnie Bushytail, one of the big, gray squirrels, sprang from one branch to another.

"We'll get him this time!" chattered Billie, the other gray squirrel.

"What's the matter," called Uncle Wiggily. "Are you chasing the Fuzzy Fox?"

"No, but it's a saucy red squirrel," answered Billie. "We don't want any red squirrels in our woods." With that he hept on after his brother Johnnie. But so both big gray squirrel boys, all out of breath, came back to where Uncle Wiggily sat under the tree.

"I couldn't catch him," panted Johnnie.

"Nor I," went on Billie. "Did you hear him scold, though?"

"No, but you're a rabbit gentleman," said the saucy red squirrel. "But why do you chase a poor little red squirrel, Billie and Johnnie?" he asked.

"Oh, we gray squirrels never let the red squirrels live anywhere near us in the same woods," explained Billie. "We always chase them away if we can."

"Yes, and if there are more red squirrels in a wood than there are gray squirrels, they chase us," added Johnnie.

"Hum," said Uncle Wiggily, twinking his pink nose thoughtfully. "It seems to me it would be better, since you are all squirrels alike, to live in peace and happiness together."

"That's what we shall!" agreed Johnnie.

It was a few days after this that Uncle Wiggily, again passing through the forest, saw a little animal frisking about in the top of a tree.

"Is that you, Johnnie or Billie?" the bunny asked.

"No," was the answer, in a sad little voice. "My name is Rusty Tail, and I am glad Johnnie and Billie are here, or they'd chase me. But you won't will you?"

"No, indeed, I'll not chase you," promised the rabbit gentleman. "Anyhow, if I wished to do so, I can't climb a tree."

There was a rustling in the leaves and down came a little red squirrel. He was named Rusty Tail, for his tail, not so large as those of the gray squirrels, was just the color of red, rusty iron.

"Do you like nuts, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Rusty Tail. "If you do, I know where there are a lot of last year's hickory nuts in a hollow tree. This year's nuts are not ripe yet, but there are piles of last year's ones I can give you."

"Thank you—but I can't eat hard hickory nuts," said the rabbit. "But if I were to get Johnnie and Billie here they would love them. I'm sure."

George Tranberger at the wheel of his home-made speedster, with Mike Yawmen seated beside him. Inset, Lucille Kane, Tranberger's 13-year-old bride-to-be-who-wasn't.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 30.—Miss Lucille Kane, 13, came within an ace of being Mrs. George Tranberger. Cupid had it all arranged. So did George. But the law stepped in. George has spent the fifteen years of his life in Parsons. He'll probably spend considerable more years there.

LA CRESCENTA

DATE OF SCHOOL OPENING DELAYED

Delay in Completion of New Buildings Is Cause of Postponement

La Crescenta and Montrose schools will not open until Sept. 17, which is a week later than originally planned. This delay was caused by the impossibility of finishing the addition to the La Crescenta building and the new Montrose school by the time expected.

Contractors at work on the two room addition at La Crescenta school are expected to be completed on October 7, making three full weeks in which other accommodation will have to be arranged for, even with the later opening date.

The present plan of the trustees is to install the desks and other equipment purchased for the two rooms in the auditorium and hold classes there until the addition is ready.

The new school in Montrose is expected to be completed on October first and until that time the pupils will be accommodated at the La Crescenta school. Nine teachers have been engaged so far by the board for the coming year, but it is expected another one will be employed.

Enrollment Grows
Three years ago the school opened with three teachers and ninety pupils. This year it will open with nine teachers and over 300 enrolled pupils, showing the growth of the community. The newest teacher to be added to the staff is Mrs. Boyer, formerly a teacher in Washington D. C. and Los Angeles, who will make her home in Montrose and teach in the Montrose school. Mrs. Eyre, who taught here last year, will be vice principal in the Montrose building, where the board expects they will have to employ three teachers instead of the two now engaged.

A first class manual training shop will be fitted up in the bungalow on the grounds at La Crescenta school, benches and adequate tools being supplied for the work of the boys of the 6th, 7th and 8th grades.

Sloyd is to be featured more in the grade schools and the La Crescenta board is keeping up with the times in installing a complete sloyd department with a teacher in charge who is reputed to be the best in Los Angeles county.

Mr. Blanford, who for a number of years has had charge of the athletic work for the Glendale schools, will take charge of La Crescenta school as principal. Mr. Blanford is well known in the Valley and comes with the high-

But to come back to the romance of these two young lives.

Parsons is quite a little way from this city, where Lucille lives, and train service is more or less slow and costly—especially in a case of love.

And there's nothing romantic about a dusty day coach. So George emulated Henry Ford and built himself a flivver for his jaunts to see his lady love.

Then he loaded his pal, Mike Yawmen, into the seat beside him. The journey to this city began.

In addition to being mechanic for Driver George, Mike was to "double in brass" and act as best man at the wedding which George had planned.

Nothing marred the trip here, but the intrepid young Lothario and his "best man" ran into trouble shortly after their arrival and before George had had time to whisk his "love" away to a marrying parson.

Seems that George's parents got wind of his intentions and the unromantic Kaw town police picked him up, together with his trusted lieutenant, as runaways. That's the reason Lucille is still waiting to tack "Mrs." in front of her name and change it to Tranberger.

TALKS TO UNION

Announcement is made that Dr. Walter F. McCaleb is to speak to night at 8 o'clock in the I. O. O. F. hall in the Ralph building or West Broadway to the Carpenters' local. Members of the other crafts and occupations in the A. F. O. L. are invited to hear him.

Best of recommendations behind him.

Mrs. C. H. Wooley of Honolulu avenue has just received word of the death of her young niece, Miss Hazel Stromquist of Lindborg, Kan. Mrs. Wooley's friends will remember Hazel Stromquist when she visited her aunt here two years ago.

The Community church missionary society met at the home of Mrs. Burt on Honolulu avenue on Thursday afternoon. Quite a number were present.

Easterners Coming
A number of people from the east are journeying to La Crescenta to make their home here at Ananda Ashrama, or "Peace Retreat of the Vedantists," whose head house is in Boston. The newest arrivals are a Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, and Mrs. Fisher and two sons, all of Boston. They expect to make their permanent home here at the retreat. Mr. Nelson recently won the Edison prize offered over the country for the best electrical invention.

Grabhu Guba Thakurta, who is a Swami Paramananda's nephew, arrived in New York one week ago and came right on to the end of his long journey from India to complete his studies.

M. A. from the Calcutta, India University, but expects to make his home here for an indefinite time.

THE GLENDALE

"The Woman of Bronze," with Clara Kimball Young in the featured role, shows at the Glendale Theatre for the last times today, in a Metro production made by Harry Garson, from a stage play in which Margaret Anglin was starred.

The play was adapted by Paul Kester from a sensational success French novel by Henry Kistaeamacher, and the screen version was prepared by Hope Loring and Louis Lighton. In the supporting cast of this powerful photoplay are John Bowers, Katherine McGuire, Edwin Stevens, Lloyd Whitlock and Edward Kimball.

"The Woman of Bronze" presents Miss Young in one of the finest vehicles for her superb dramatic talents that has ever been offered this leading American film actress.

Tomorrow a great vaudeville show is billed in addition to the regular film program.

THE GATEWAY

"Masters of Men," Morgan Robertson's powerful story of the sea, produced by David Smith and distributed by Vitagraph, shows at the Gateway theatre tonight, with an all-star cast, including Earle Williams, Alice Calhoun, Cullen Landis and Wanda Hawley.

The hero, Dick Halpin, is the sort of boy every American admires, sensitive to hurts, rebellious against snobbery, quick to fight and big enough to carry a secret wrong to save the girl he loves from humiliation.

"Masters of Men" contains many spectacular features, among them a naval battle, the Battle of Santiago, when Cervera's fleet was destroyed as it came out to sea. This sequence was permitted through the courtesy of the navy department at Washington, and is not faked. The result is a highly realistic battle.

United States mint was established in 1792.

DAMAGED

When Freedom Beckoned

Today's Short Story, by Ad Schuster

Doc Desy left the penitentiary in a hurry. Taking advantage of a dense fog and a moment of carelessness on the part of the guard, he climbed over the wall and devoted his attention for several hours to putting distance between himself and the great stone building.

"No doubt they'll catch me," he repeated to himself. "But anyhow I will have tried." When night came he was still free and also covered with mud, and tired. For a week he hid in the swamp. Then he started edging his way north toward the trees. There would be trees up there. Maybe a farmer would give him food. Doc was tired of eating roots and fish. His beard had grown and he told himself he was disguised. If he could only find Cal Minks.

Cal was the only man who could say a word for him. If Cal had chosen he could have opened the door to freedom long ago, but that would mean a cell for Cal.

"Don't know as I blame him," Doc said. "We were both to blame, but he did it. It was his hand that held the club. If I can find him I'll make him own up. Then I will be cleared."

The escaped man was hungry and all but exhausted when he stepped out of the thicket to see a house in the center of a clearing.

There was a half moon shining and Doc could see this was a small and poor place. He wondered why the light was burning for it was after midnight. Doc crept close to the window and looked in.

There was a man on the bed and beside him, in a chair, an old woman sat watching. Bottles of medicine on a table, the anxious air of the woman and something about the form of the man spoke of serious illness. Doc had been a physician once. He strained his eyes and saw that the medicine was no more than cough syrup and liniment. The woman rose and limped painfully across the room.

"If I were to go in there," Doc said, "I might be able to help. It is a pity." It was plain that if the man were desperately ill he could not recover under such nursing as the all but helpless woman could give.

"And if I go in," the watcher added, "I will be caught." He stirred uneasily. They were close after him now. Word of the escape had been spread all over the state. Once he had thought he heard dogs. Doc turned in the darkness and ran.

After a while he sat down. Here he was, a physician, deserting an appeal for the assistance he could give. The picture of the old woman doing her best while he had turned his back persisted in his mind. Doc retraced his steps and as he neared the house the fear of the chase came upon him again. Once more he stopped. He heard a shout. It was near daylight. If he wished to reach the woods he must hasten. Doc looked at the light in the house, turned back toward the shadow of the forest and ran. With every step he cursed himself for a coward. But he ran.

At the end of the forest line two men with rifles stood up and blocked his way. It was absurdly easy. The adventure of escape was over and a gaunt and panting man swayed between the captors who urged him on.

"That house," Doc gasped. "Someone is in trouble there. Can't you stop to offer help?"

"We'll put the cuffs on this bird and see what is the matter," one of the guards suggested. "There isn't a chance he can get away."

As they neared the door the first light of morning came over the hills. The door opened, and an old woman stumbled out and when she saw the men, waved frantically for their attention.

"He is dead," she repeated. "I took care of him the best I could, but I didn't have anything at hand. Dead and all the time calling for his friend who never came. Do any of you men know a Doctor Sam Deesy?"

Doc stiffened. "What was his name?"

"Cal Minks, my husband, and he died with trouble on his mind."

"What did he want with Deesy?"

"He said over and over, 'Bring Doc Deesy and I'll set it right.' When I asked him what it was he wished to say, he shook his head. 'Bring Doc Deesy,' that is all I could hear. Whatever the secret was, it is gone."

Doc thought over the events of the night and knew that had he stopped to give aid to the stricken man he would have been exonerated.

"Take me back," he said gruffly. "It's no more than right I go back."

Tomorrow—Desperate Measures.

"There!" said my Bride Neighbor with satisfaction. "I think I've learned how to make almost all of the commonly known cakes. I have tried sponge cake, fruit cake, chocolate cakes galore, white cakes, spice cakes—" and she named many more of the old favorites. Yet she had overlooked one—applesauce cake.

"You are not truly experienced," I told her, "until you have learned to bake a good applesauce cake." Then I gave her the following "just how" recipe:

Applesauce Cake. The first step is to make applesauce and cool it. Do not sweeten it. It must be tart applesauce, and not too thick.

Begin to make the cake batter by creaming together, in a medium mixing bowl, one cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter. Now measure out one cup of rather thin applesauce; stir into this one teaspoon of soda mixed with one tablespoon of hot water

(tip a little of the applesauce from the cup, into the bowl, before you add this dissolved soda to the mixture). The soda makes the sauce foam and the mixture should be poured at once into the mixing bowl. Stir vigorously, then add one and three-fourths cups of flour and one cup of seedless raisins. The batter is now ready to be baked, as follows:

I personally prefer this cake baked as cup cakes. The above recipe will make just one dozen cup cakes (that is, if the "wells" of your cup cake pan measure about three inches across the top, two and one-half inches across the bottom and are one inch deep). Fill the wells a little over half full. Slip the pan into a good, hot oven and bake for fifteen minutes, then reduce the temperature slightly and bake for from five to ten minutes longer.

The above recipe may be baked without raisins if desired. The economical housekeeper bakes this cake often, because it calls for no eggs and no milk, yet is delicious. When properly made, it is about as firm as gingerbread and is brown and slightly crusted over top. With the "wells" half full of batter or a little more than half full—the cup cakes when baked will be raised at least one-half inch above the pan.

Tomorrow—The Tactful Housekeeper.

PICTORIAL REVIEW 1780

SIMPLY AND SMARTLY DESIGNED

This frock is just as smart when finished with a plaited flounce as with a circular one. It has the long, slender lines that fashion approves. Graduated tucks take up the fullness at the front and there is a tie sash at the back. To finish the round collar and short sleeves, fancy ribbon or braid may be used. Medium size requires 6 1/2 yards 36-inch crepe, taffeta, or whatever material may be favored for the development of the model.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1780. Sizes, 34 to 44 inches bust, and 16 to 20 years. Price 45 cents.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

STOUT WOMEN

I'd like to give some general rules for the woman who is too stout and who has a genuine desire to reduce. She'll probably know them already, but still—I'd suggest she cut them out and paste them on a little card, and hang it above her dressing table or her desk, or any place where she can read it over several times a day. Most women are fat because they don't obey these rules.

Don't sleep too much, either at night or in the day. A nap after luncheon is heavenly, but add pounds.

Don't overeat, even of non-fattening foods.

Don't drink with meals. Drink half an hour afterwards, and drink as little as possible always.

Don't ride when you can walk, and when you walk do it briskly.

Don't nibble between meals. Three meals a day are all the fat woman may have; perhaps a cup of sugarless, milkless tea in the afternoon might be permitted as luxury.

These rules are easy enough to remember and to obey. The most important is the second rule. That one involves study. You must know what to eat and what to avoid, and what quantities you are permitted. The caloric method is the safest, because then you can judge for yourself, wherever you are, how much food you should take during any day. People who travel or who board and can't have a specially prepared diet will find this the only way of reducing. For, though they may eat as much lettuce as they can cram, they mustn't eat but the littlest bit of ham-and-eggs. But the caloric system is a bother for most people, who prefer baths and pills, and then sigh that for all their exertions they can't lose an ounce—no doubt swallowing a rich chocolate cream as they say so.

Next week I'll give a list of things to avoid eating.

Kentucky Belle: A curling fluid which keeps the hair in curl for several days is made from either guano seeds or from gum tragacanth. With either you make a thin mucilage by pouring boiling water over them, which will dissolve them into a heavy gum. Thin this to consistency of mucilage and use on the hair when forming it into curls. After the curls have dried into shape comb and shake out the dried particles of the fluid.

P. B. S.: A hair tonic cannot be published at this time, but I shall be glad to mail you the formula for an excellent one if you send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow—The Manicure.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

EAGLE ROCK

NAME OF SCHOOL TO BE SELECTED

Mrs. H. R. Collins Says That
'Harding' Has Been Taken
By Another

The new $90,000 school being erected at the corner of Valley drive and Toland way will not be named the Warren G. Harding school, as was hoped, reports Mrs. H. R. Collins, "the mother of six," president pro tem. of the Occidental-York Valley Improvement Association and president of the Buchanan Parent-Teacher Association, the reason being that another new school was prior in its application to the Los Angeles Board of Education for permission to so name its structure.

Mrs. Collins states that this information comes direct from the board and is final. What the school may be named, now that it cannot be a memorial to the late President Harding, cannot yet be stated, although it is understood the association is considering calling it the "York Valley" school. The trouble with this latter name is that there already exists within the city a "Yorkdale" school.

Suggestions of a name for the structure at the corner of Valley and Toland will be welcome, says Mrs. Collins.

Local Notes

Mrs. J. C. Brayton of 117 West Hill avenue is planning to erect a two-story brick building on the west side of North Central avenue, near Colorado boulevard. The ground floor will be devoted to stores, the upper floor to apartments.

The pretty bungalow M. F. Reynolds has recently completed for Mrs. Carrie Roberts at 5266 Ellenwood drive is known as the "Vanity Box" because it is so attractive and so compact. It contains a combination living and dining room, two bedrooms, bath, breakfast nook, kitchen, screen porch and numerous built-in features.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Richardson and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Richardson, of 246 South Sierra Vista, have returned with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Braham and Mrs. Ella Spaulding from a week's outing at Catalina island.

Personal Items

Miss Mary Richardson of San Bernardino has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson, at 249 North Royal drive.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Terry have rented their home at the corner of Hill and Windermere avenues to friends of Mrs. J. C. Brayton. Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Arbogast and their daughters, Wanda and Juanita, have been spending a few days at San Diego, whence they went by boat.

Mrs. Reed, principal of the recently ended summer session, is now at Lake Arrowhead for a few weeks. Miss Boly of the Eagle Rock school is spending the remainder of her vacation at Pomona.

Jesse H. Taylor, former city trustee, of 210 West Myrtle avenue, recently enjoyed a successful hunting trip, judging by the venison Mrs. Maud Lewis and family enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Herr and family of 123 North Highlands avenue, and Mrs. Herr's sister, Mrs. Auriur, of Highland Park, with Edwin and Weston, her two children, are vacationing at Glen ranch.

Miss Frances Tysen of Owensmouth spent last week-end with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Van Lee Hood, of 421 South Central avenue.

After a week at Yosemite, Mr. and Mrs. Ahlers and son, George, of Lawrence avenue, are now at Pacific Beach.

Miss Elizabeth Utt of Tuftin, Cal., has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bennett of Hill and Paloma avenues.

German wool clip is one-fifth that of the country at the close of the Franco-Prussian war and 90 per cent of the amount used is imported.

BURBANK

BRIDGE ACROSS WASH FAVORED

$60,000 Appropriation Is Asked, According to Eng.
F. Curt Miller

It has been recommended that a $60,000 bridge be built across the Pacoima wash near San Fernando, and work may be expected to start on this structure at no far distant time, according to F. C. Miller, Burbank city engineer.

Hugh Pomeroy states that the regional planning commission is not particularly backing the movement, although it has no objection to making Lake street a connecting link with Riverside drive.

Mr. Pomeroy believes that Crescent and Main streets should be the principal connecting links, however, and states that the commission is centering its efforts on getting these projects through.

No. 1 Spudding In

The Burbank Oil Company is reported to have signed a contract with the California Drilling Company for the sinking of a shaft on their twenty-acre lease in the northwest extension of the Santa Fe Springs field.

Yesterday, August 30, a large delegation of Burbank people were on hand to see the drill start for the Meyer sands. They beheld the derrick up, the boilers set and everything ready to go. When the drill took her first bite of mother earth a loud cheer arose. It is hoped by these investors that in a few months they will gather at a respectful distance from Burbank No. 1 and watch her come in a gusher!

On Telegraph Road

The local company's lease is on Telegraph road, directly between the Oak Ridge well, which is standing cemented, and the M. & H. hole, which is showing gas and oil as the bit goes down.

The Burbank Oil Company's lease is in the immediate vicinity of large acreage owned by the Union, Standard, Amalgamated and other large companies. Their slogan is "Bank on Burbank."

Members of the Burbank city council attending the dinner given at Jensen's Egyptian Village in Glendale Wednesday night report a splendid meeting.

Local and Social

Mrs. J. B. Watson, who is in a hospital in Los Angeles, was operated on Saturday morning for a tumor on the knee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hartman of 429 Providencia avenue are the parents of a ten-pound baby boy, born Monday morning, August 27, 1923. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mrs. L. J. Campbell and her mother, Mrs. Wilson, have taken a cottage at Long Beach and are spending several weeks there for the benefit of Mrs. Wilson's health.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Woods, owners of the Nancy Ellen ranch, have sold their Hollywood home and are temporarily located on the ranch home site, on South Olive avenue.

May Close Buildings In Dry Law Probe

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—Uncle Sam's last resort warning to violators of the Volstead act, a large cloth sign, reading, "Closed by order of the United States federal district court," is scheduled to be displayed from at least a score of local buildings in the near future, according to Albert Guy, local counselor to Prohibition Director S. F. Rutter. Attorney Guy is here conducting closed door hearings against druggists, surgeons and winery owners, cited to show cause why their permits should not be revoked.

Yucatan recently imported 250 American baseball outfits for the use of the Socialist Resistance league, which is maintaining several baseball leagues.

Signs Fail to Work On Swede Boy, Plea

If you are a believer in signs, watch out! They may mean something different than you think. For instance, Pasadena promotes this publicity about Sunland:

As a talker of sign language, Frank Mears of Sunland is a complete failure. He said so himself when arraigned in the Justice Court of K. C. Newell here today on a charge of having started a brush fire without a permit. As proof he pointed to his co-defendant, Arthur Paulson, and invited anyone in the courtroom to talk to Arthur in anything but signs. No one could, for Arthur is a Swede boy.

Mears claims that he employed Paulson at the request of an uncle of the boy three weeks ago, but that was too short a time in which to teach him English. Therefore they used signs. When Mears went away from home yesterday he instructed Paulson, by signs, to cut down some weeds and spread them out to dry. When he came home Arthur had the weeds all burned and himself and his employer nicely arrested. Mears will tell it all over again to Justice Newell in court next week.

Legion Names Officers, To Meet in Monterey

EUREKA, Aug. 31. — The American Legion, department of California, and its host of delegates have gone from here over night like the Arabs of the desert after a three-day session, in which they elected new officers and selected a 1924 meeting place—Monterey. The new officials are:

Commander, Jim Collins of Long Beach; first vice-commander, George B. Miller of San Francisco; second vice-commander, Roy Miggins of Redwood City; third vice-commander, Dixie Boulware, San Francisco; chaplain, George A. Hartman, El Centro; sergeant-at-arms, C. K. ("Bulldog") Badger, Bakersfield; historian, Harold B. Ellenstein, Venice; delegates-at-large, A. E. Graupner of San Francisco; George Hatfield, Stockton, and Henry Mathewson of San Francisco.

Alternates, Irwin T. Quinn, Eureka; Walter Garrison of Lodi; Allen Bixby of Pasadena; Ed Jaffe of Berkeley. National committeeman, Seth Millington of Colusa.

Alternate, H. H. Crawford of San Francisco.

ANOTHER SUIT IN GAS BOND TANGLE

Verdugo Woodlands Woman
Would Restrain Auditor
Computing Taxes

Verdugo Woodlands "gas-bond-interest" problem has been further complicated yesterday afternoon by the filing before Judge C. S. Crail in the superior court of a third supplemental complaint. Miss Winifred F. Marr of 1663 Opechee way served notice of the action personally upon former City Attorney Hartley Shaw and Acting City Attorney Ray L. Morrow.

In this action, Miss Marr seeks to have County Auditor H. A. Payne restrained from computing any tax upon the property in Municipal Improvement District No. 6 and Tax Collector W. O. Welch restrained from collecting any of the levy.

Among other basis for action outlined in the complaint is the following: "The council of the city of Glendale did not on or before the first Monday of July of the year 1923 cause to be filed with the county auditor a description of the exterior boundary of any district or portion of said city in which there must be levied a rate different from the rate to be levied in any other portion of said city for the year beginning March 1, 1923.

"Notwithstanding, the county auditor on or about the thirteenth day of August, 1923, at the time he transmitted to said council a statement of the total assessed valuation of all the property in the said city, transmitted also to said council a statement in writing which purported to be a statement showing separately the total assessed valuation of all property in a district designated by said county auditor as Municipal Improvement District No. 6."

COMMENT That's All

Italian Blackhand Plot?
Liquor Consigned to Gutter
Praise for Public Servants
Children of the Films
By Gil A. Cowan

THE price of peace—such as Greece is offering to pay Italy because one lone boundary commissioner was shot—is exorbitant. Think of a country demanding $2,500,000 for one man's life, especially when a person could never earn such a sum as "boundary commissioner."

Yet Greece seems game and humble, to a fault, in letting the Italians make such a charge. One would almost think that Mussolini has engaged in a "blackhand" plot.

Local news of the day includes the destruction of 720 quarts of rice wine—known to Nipponese as sake—by the police department of Glendale under Judge F. H. Lowe's instructions.

However, we doubt that he desired it to flow down the gutter of Broadway past business houses and under automobiles, spreading the sickening aroma, and causing a commotion such as is seldom seen.

Also, the writer cannot conceive of pictures taken at this "Glendale destruction of liquor" as being a healthy advertisement for the "fastest growing city."

The shipment originated near San Jose, and was destined for Los Angeles. Good thing that Glendale officers intercepted it, for Los Angeles is too busy crushing crime to squeeze the hooch out of hay bales, such as was the case in Mr. Yamamoto's little smuggling plot.

While everybody has "free advice" for the police, particularly when they are doing what they believe is right, we have the greatest respect and sympathy for the public servants who are usually underpaid and given plenty of work.

Fact is, folks, several local patrolmen are joining the Los Angeles force at higher pay. Yet our "tax howlers" would have howled their heads off if more salary had been suggested. That's the kind of benevolence some people believe in.

The Hollywood Citizen pays tribute to the firemen, recalling an incident the first of the week in which several New York fire fighters lost their lives. It says: "Watching the progress of a fight against a great fire will always impress one with the risks that are shouldered by the firemen."

"They must apparently show no concern for their own lives and concentrate on fighting the fire. 'Why shouldn't we, with great forces of firemen, be able to provide some whose sole duty is to watch out for the safety of others?'"

"If the latter must concentrate on fighting the flames, let the former concentrate on insuring to as great an extent as possible the safety of the firemen."

"The life of a fireman, it strikes us, is just as important as the life of any other individual about whom we throw many safeguards in the way of public protection. 'To his family his life means much more than the fire loss on any building means to an insurance company. 'He is entitled to more consideration than he receives.'"

Mothers and fathers, how you have envied the parents, perhaps, of children in the films. Indeed, several little players live in Glendale, yet there is another side to the story told by the Pasadena Star-News in a current comment which the writer takes the privilege of copying:

"Two children of the films have been mentioned prominently recently in connection with engagements for screen work which bring to them enormous sums—hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. One year's salary of these little ones—one talented boy and one baby girl of 3½ years—is far more than the average man can earn in an average lifetime. It seems grossly inequitable in the scheme of things."

"But there is another angle to this which is to be regretted. Such immense wealth for children not out of the nursery is a blighting influence on their young lives. They cannot live the sweet, natural, care-free existence of the average child. They are pampered and put under strain and surrounded by hothouse artificiality. They become old before their time. And possession of such great wealth, even though parents wisely may supervise it, is a demoralizing condition. Far better off would children be without the handicap of great riches and of exacting cares to cumber their infantile years. And yet good, clean pictures, made by children are an inspiration and a delight to millions."

In several European countries sunflowers are grown for economic purposes, the leaves being used for cattle fodder, seeds for food and for oil considered equal to olive or almond oil, and flowers for yellow dye.

VERDUGO'S HOME HISTORIC PLACE

Old Timer Describes Visit to
'Dobe in Canyon; Spins
Yarn of Early Days

Boulevard Graded

Canada boulevard was just being graded and clouds of dust rising in the valley could be seen from the ranch house on the hill. The grading camp with its sweating mules and sometimes profane drivers were signs of the passing of the old order and announced a new era of the subdivision. But at that time the peacefulness of the ranch home was still undisturbed.

On the broad veranda, screened by riotous roses climbing to the eaves, were to be found the rustic seats and swinging hammock. To one steeped in the romance of early California it seemed not unlike the veranda at Camulos and, if the ghost of Ramona or of Father Salvaderra should have appeared, it would not have surprised the dreamer. It would not take a very vivid imagination to see the ghostly flocks in the dark canyons behind the ranch house.

The huge woodpile at the rear, prosaic in appearance, bespoke the big stove in the kitchen on which at all times of the day kettles bubbled unromantically. The same pile in the evening provided the logs for the open fire.

Description of Hacienda
In the dining room, with its doors opening on the wide veranda, was a long rustic table, one end of which the family dined when they were alone, which was not often, as it seemed as if the spirit of the hospitality of the old days revived, and only when the board was filled was the spirit appeased.

The big living room, nearly thirty feet long, with its fireplace on the side of the room opposite the door opening on the veranda, was furnished largely with rustic chairs and settees made from gnarled and twisted limbs of trees from the woodlands behind the ranch house, and with rug and numerous cushions was a very comfortable place. Its cool depths, for the walls are thick, afforded a refuge from the midday sun, or a cheery, homey place in the evening before the blazing fire.

Don Teodoro in Terror
In a corner of the room, unobtrusive in such a place, was a comfortable double bed, and one could conjure up the image of old Don Teodoro lying there watching the fire light, until the eye fell on the wide crack in the whitewashed wall. Then one remembered that tradition says the old don refused to sleep in the house after an unusually severe temblor. Ever afterwards he had his bed on the east veranda.

A big bedroom on the south, also opening on the veranda, was the guest chamber, and its sleeping accommodations were exceedingly elastic, as the temporary residents soon learned by necessity.

An artist guest made numerous sketches of the house, both interior and exterior, and letters to eastern friends were embellished with thumb-nail sketches of fireplace and rosebush and of the big live oak which has since been made famous by the beautiful painting by the late Eugene C. Frank.

Sitting on the rose-embowered east veranda, in the moonlight, listening to the mocking birds, the fragrance of the roses filling the air, a day comes to mind when the old don left all this and was borne on the shoulders of sons and friends, over the hills to San Gabriel, and laid with his forefathers in the old churchyard at San Gabriel Mission. And the dreamer—in the moonlight thinks regretfully of bygone days.

Park Arnold Reports Crude Oil in Demand

The gasoline war is not affecting the price of crude oil, according to H. Park Arnold, 635 North Jackson street, who has remunerative holdings on Signal Hill. He added that the demand for crude oil at Los Angeles harbor seems to keep the price firm.

Mr. Arnold is the owner of a lot on the slope of the hill, which he originally bought for a home-site. It is now occupied by four wells and a fifth is now at a depth of 2,000 feet. The oldest well, which is sixteen months old, is still producing 800 barrels of oil a day. The first month its production paid out on the investment of the driller, which amounted to about $84,000.

There seems to be no limit to the number of sands in this field, comments Mr. Arnold. He calls attention to the fact that the General Petroleum Company recently brought in a well at 5,970 feet.

CHILD WELFARE WORK OUTLINED

Dr. L. D. Trott of Los Angeles Schools Medical Staff Delivers Address

Discussion of child welfare was given yesterday afternoon at the Seventh Day Adventist camp meeting in Los Angeles, by Dr. L. D. Trott, assistant director on the medical staff of the Los Angeles public schools. Many Glendale people were in attendance.

In presenting his subject, Dr. Trott divided children into three groups, the school child, the preschool child and the infant.

His slogan is "Teach the well child how to keep well" and in carrying this out in the school work every child in the public schools is given a physical examination to determine any defects.

One of the biggest problems he cited in directing child welfare is the malnourished child. In solving this nutrition classes are formed in each school and every child is weighed and measured and compared with a table printed by the United States government.

Segregated Into Classes

The children found to be malnourished are assembled in a group and a room provided where they can have rest periods mornings and afternoons. The doctor meets with these children and mothers and confers with them on proper diet and other necessary treatment.

Dr. Trott presented all the details of his work and explained the chart "How to Reach Your Ideal Weight," arranged by the department of corrective physical education of the Los Angeles school district.

Another speaker yesterday afternoon at the camp meeting was Dr. P. T. Magan, dean of the Adventist Medical College. He told of the struggles and sacrifices of some of the students to obtain their education.

He spoke most highly of the standing of the White Memorial hospital, maintained by the Seventh Day Adventists in Los Angeles. Figures show that this institution gave 60,000 treatments in its free dispensary last year.

More than 10,000 are emigrating from Italy a month, two-thirds to Argentina, about one-eighth to Brazil and one-fifth to the United States.
